This lesson deals with the last of those four events which mark the crisis in he life of our Lord at Capternaum. It occurred just before the third period of hits Gaitlelean ministry and the time of his final departure for Jerusalem. We have seen what the attitude of Jesus what toward the rabblinist times of the people which were children to the law of his nation. In this lesson we see his attitude toward the rabblinist traditions of the people which were the optimons of med and not the law of God. Just so many today look upon the forms and ceremonies of their chiral his being werlly the law of God. Moreover, these traditions were made, at pretext whereby men evaded the law. So today we find uen very religious and punctilious in their churchijd duties, who fall intervally in their application of the moral code to conduct. The analysis falls into four general divisions? One, the accusation, (vv. 1-5.; twe, the niswer, (vv. 1-31); three, the application, (vv. 1-4-23), and fourthe illustration, (vv. 1-37).
