who were fighting for them. Carporal Owen is at present in the officer's training school at the camp, and is always heartily welcomed among us, having a faculty of "dropping in on us" unexpectedly when his services are needed in the "home town." Following another song by the High School, the audience was dismissed with the singing of America, and all went to their homes just a little more determined that we do and "keep on itoing until the world was made safe for democracy, and German Kulter ended forever."

Here and there we read of men who have been so indiscreet as to utter disloyal remarks usually in the heat of passion. Such men are usually punished in the most convenient way at hand, and are not entitled to much sympathy. These are no times for foolish persons to imagine libetty gives them the rights of a traitor. Our Government has entered upon an adventure to protect the future of every one in this nation, and it is a might picayune business for back-biters to make themselves heard. The state of the public mind is shown by the fact that there is small sympathy shown victims of punishment inflicted for the perpetration of such liceder.
