The Detroit Liberty band of about 100 pieces favored Farmington with several selections last Tuesday evening, while enroute over the D. U. R. to Northville for the Liberty Loan mass meeting in that village. Arriving here about 7:30 in special cars, the musicians alighted at the lumber yard and marched up to Cook & Co.'s store, where they dispensed music to the delight of a large crowd, although but few were previously aware that such a treat was in store for our village.

NVERSATI

Between Mr. Doubtful and Mr. Right

Mr. Doubtful: "I don't see how I can buy any more Liberty Bonds. I bought all I could last fall. I'm not a rich man and I don't think it's fair or just to expect me to do anything more than I have done."

Mr. Right: "Let's see your next-door neighbor's boy enlisted, didn't he?"

Mr. Doubtful: "Yes, he's over in France now. Mighty fine, stalwart boy, that!"

that!"

Mr. Right: "Exactly, and some day that splendid boy, the pride of his parents' hearts, may go 'over the top' in a gallant charge, stop a German bullet, and fall in the mud and debris of No Man's Land. Isn't that asking too much of him, and of his family? Is that 'fair?' Is that 'just?'"

Mr. Doubful: "Why, it's awful, of course, but it can't be helped. This is war, and men have to be killed in it."

Mr. Right; "You've said it - this is war! To win the war it might be necessary for the government to take your factory away from you, and ruin your business. It might be necessary to take your house and turn you out in the street. What of that? Is that as great a sacrifice as your neighbor makes, or stands ready to make, when he gives his boy to his country? Yet you don't think it's your duty to pinch and save, and borrow if need be, in order to buy Liberty Bonds, and thus help shorten the war, make victors are the lives of thou tory certain, and save the lives of thou-sands of American boys who will otherwise be uselessly sacrificed.

Mr. Doubtful: "I guess that's true Mr. Right, I have been thoughtless. I'll stop complaining and criticising, and put up my last dollar if need be, to help win this war."
