

HOW THIS NERVOUS WOMAN GOT WELL

Told by Herself. Her Sincerity Should Convince Others.

Christopher, Ill.—"For four years I suffered from irregularities, weakness, nervousness, and was in a run-down condition. Two of our best doctors failed to do me any good. I heard so much about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others, I tried it and was cured. I am no longer nervous, am regular, and in excellent health. I believe the Compound will cure any female trouble."—Mrs. ALICE HICKER, Christopher, Ill.

Teach the Boys French. Simple Lessons That are Given to our Soldiers Who are Serving "Over There."

TEACH THE BOYS FRENCH

A. Y. M. C. A. director said to me, hesitatingly, and in French as fluently as an old Frenchman: "Don't you please help us with our French classes which we are having every night for the American soldiers in Paris? Men and women are teaching in these classes for nothing, and we want to develop the study of French. We want the soldiers to know something besides the bad part of France—the women who talk to them on the boulevards but not for nothing."

KEEPING OF BOOKS CUTS FARM LOSSES

M. A. C. Man Points Out How Records Reveal Leakages in Agricultural Business.

SPURRED BY INCOME REPORTS

Demands of Government for Report on Farm Revenues Make Many Convert to Accounting System.

By C. H. GRAVES, Farm Management Demonstrator, Michigan Agricultural College.

East Lansing, Mich.—It has been found through investigation over the past few years that the farmers who have made the greatest profits in their business have kept careful records and accounts and have used them as a means of studying the conditions of their business and the various ways of improving it. On account of these findings, special efforts are being made in Michigan and elsewhere to have greater numbers of farmers keep farm books and use them to strengthen their management.

Not only does a farm record serve as a guide to better management, it also furnishes a very convenient way to make the financial reports required by financial statements in order to secure loans, make out schedules of rent to present to commissions and figure up costs of production in order to meet buyers intelligently at the business world on its own platform.

Business Farmer Least Troubled. The fact that the country is dependent on its agriculture has been most forcefully brought home to us during the past year. Farmers are looking up on us as business men and are to be dealt with on business terms. The farmer who has in the past followed the development of the business world and adopted some form of accounts or records is the one who has the least trouble to bear at critical times.

The income tax reports have brought home to the farmers of our country the necessity for better and better records. Many farmers were unable to give a definite statement concerning their income for the past year. A recent decision of the United States Treasury Department No. 2965 amending the income tax decision No. 2153, states that "farmers who keep books according to some approved method of accounting which clearly shows the net income for each year, and the annual inventories, may, if the same method is consistently followed from year to year, prepare their returns in accordance with the shifting made in the decision of the federal government."

Accountant Make Loans Easier. The farmer often finds it necessary to secure a short-time loan in order to carry on the regular farm business, or to make desired changes in the way he keeps systematic records of his business is much more likely to be given consideration by the bank than the one who does not. The banks in many of the states are requiring such statements, which makes it quite necessary for the farmers doing business with them to keep records. Often farmers are refused credit by the banks because the banks have no means to determine the standing of his patron, and the farmer is refused credit for no other reason. The use of a farm financial statement would soon place the farmer in a position to determine the period of the present year, many demands have been made on the farmers to furnish data on costs of production by the federal government, and the federal government is endeavoring to establish satisfactory prices. Not long since 10 county agents, representing three states, assembled in Washington at the request of the federal government to assist in determining what price should be paid to farmers by licensed manufacturers for a certain important farm product. Much of the information was furnished by the farmers themselves. Some of the "ins" due to the different conditions under which the farmers in the various counties were working, and a good deal of the work went into items that should have been included. They had no disposition to criticize the splendid work done by these men in the emergency, but to the efficient manner in which they handled the situation. It would have been, however, an enormous help to these men if they had been supplied with some of the information of their respective communities and gotten actual records that had been kept on the farms on the cost of producing the crop in question.

BLACK-HEART OF POTATOES

Improper Shipping Precautions Cause Heavy Loss to Michigan Growers.

East Lansing, Mich.—One of the frequent causes of loss to Michigan growers of potatoes during the past winter and spring was the prevalence of black-heart in many carload lots of tubers. In two carloads shipped from the Ludington district, for instance, the loss was 10 per cent, while in another car shipped from Lansing to Toledo the loss was almost equally heavy. Most people are familiar with black-heart, but many do not realize that the tubers show hollow, black-bordered cavities in the center.

Black-heart is produced when potatoes are heated to 90 degrees to 104 degrees F. for a few hours or stored at lower temperatures in piles deeper than 6 feet without ventilation from the sides or bottom. Temperatures of 90 degrees to 104 F. are not infrequently reached in cars that are heated during very cold weather, and then delayed in transit, or halting only occasionally in warm weather sets in suddenly, or in cars that pass from zones of very cold weather into one of warm weather. Overheating or lack of ventilation in cellars is equally effective in bringing about black-heart. Injury of this type is not restricted to the tubers, but extends to the string of the stover, to the loading of the cars, and to proper provision for air circulation within the cars.

A false notion of cold walls should be maintained in order to permit the free movement of large volumes of heated air to the bottom of the load. In cars constructed with wire and iron bunkers, false walls should never be included in such a way that the circulation of the heated air from the stove to the ceiling, over the top of the load, and under the false floor, be cut off at any point. The should not be loaded closer than 3 feet, and should be protected from the direct heat of the stove by a sheet of asbestos or other nonconducting material.

Furnish Many Army Officers.

As records go, the Michigan Agricultural College, according to its annual secretary, has excelled every other educational institution in the state and its agricultural sisters in other states in the number of officers it has furnished for the new army. At present it has put out of all the men holding commissions with Uncle Sam are 21.
