

HOW A PARISIAN AIR RAID FEELS

Red Cross Inspector Tells Thrilling Story of Desperate Moments.

NOISE ACCOMPANIES ATTACK

Yank Engineers Go About Unperturbed While Rescuing Injured—Victims Are Sent to the Sisters of the Poor.

Washington.—Writing of a German air raid on Paris, one of the American Red Cross inspectors gives a thrilling account of how American troops and Red Cross workers give aid to the city in such desperate moments. He describes an air raid in this fashion:

"Nowhere is there any sound but the echoes of footsteps. Not a street light is to be seen, not a single ray of light—nothing but the inky and most impenetrable darkness. Then all of the noise in the world seems to break loose. Clang-clang-clang booms the tocsin—like a gigantic pneumatic riveter working on a colossal bell. Whooooo shrieks the siren, running up and down the scale in an awful wail.

"The streets come to life. Doors open and slam shut. The sidewalks are full of ghostly figures hurrying toward the caves, where the inhabitants have fitted up cells and bunking. They get up now to make a sitting place for the newcomers. The children go to sleep with their heads on their mothers' shoulders, and a girl in the uniform of a street car conductor swaps yarns with a Polin in daisy blue. In the last raid the front trucks of her car were thrown from the rails by the displacement of air caused by an exploding torpedo. The car and its inmates were uninjured. The Polin looks a little incredulous and murmurs: 'I can well believe you, madame!'

Archives Barrage Sky.

"Outside the noise continues for about three or four minutes and then subsides as a new noise starts—the Archives, or anti-aircraft guns, which commence to bark furiously from half a dozen different points. Searchlights rake the sky. The Archives continue their clamor, but they are not firing at anything, merely keeping up a barrage fire to prevent the Boches flying over the city.

"Suddenly there is an earth-shaking boom. No doubt as to where the Boches are. Whoom, whoom, whoom! Involuntarily ducks and tries to crawl to cover his head with his shoulders. A hideous noise resounds up and down the deserted street—falling walls, and the tinkling and crash of showers of broken glass and roofing tiles.

"Through the glass and litter of the street an American Red Cross comrade comes plowing his way. One of the city firemen stands on the running board.

"Anybody here from numbers 49?"

"13" FIGURES IN SINKING

Fateful Number Plays Prominent Part in Connection With Loss of Oran.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The figure 13 was very prominent in connection with the sinking of the steamship Oran, on which were the 37 U. S. C. A. war workers. The following is part of a letter received at the Metropolitan headquarters of the Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A. from one of the secretaries in London.

"The sailors said they were not superstitious, but—

"The passengers went on board on a Friday.

"The Oran left America on April 13.

"Thirteen vessels were in the convoy.

"Thirteen preachers were on board the Oran, also thirteen Methodists.

"It was the thirteenth round-trip for the commander of the convoy and the thirteenth trip for an escorting warship.

"Lt. C. Bennett, of New York, assigned to berth No. 13, was the only sick passenger. He moved out. Thomas B. Dawson of Providence, R. I., who took on No. 13, had the narrow escape.

"The torpedo struck at 1:03 a. m., sinking the Oran in thirteen minutes.

"Lifeboat No. 13 alone was destroyed by the explosion.

"Upon reaching shore a conference was called in Room No. 13, and one man received that check No. 13.

"On the thirteenth day out a black cat on board increased the passengers by three black kittens. Aside from that there was nothing connected with superstition."

RED CROSS WORK IN ITALY

Organization Performs Big Task in Helping the Unfortunates in That Country.

Washington.—In the historic Palazzo Vecchio of Florence, Italy, the American Red Cross distributed clothing to more than 40,000 refugees and poverty-stricken Italians in two days. The contents of each parcel covered a wide variety of needs, from underwear to toys for children yet unborn.

Part of the supply came from this country, part from stocks in neutral countries, where industrial Red Cross agents have been able to satisfy a portion of their needs, and part presented at the city storerooms.

In addition, orders for food were distributed to persons whose needs were guaranteed, small certificates good for five lire worth of rice, canned milk, or condensed milk, when presented at the city storerooms.

The press of the country commented on this relief work of the American people as "the greatest single gift on record to any Italian city during the war."

ARE DOOMED FOR WORKHOUSE

Frustrated Suicide in New Jersey Are Sent Up by Police Magistrate.

Trenton, N. J.—Despondent auto-mechanics will be committed to the workhouse by Magistrate Forester if they fail in attempts to kill themselves. An example was furnished recently when Michael Curley, at one time the proprietor of a prominent drinking place in the city, was sent to the institution to serve three months because he tried to drown himself in a creek. He was pulled out in the nick of time by a policeman.

When arraigned in court, clad only in a blanket, Curley delivered a brief speech in which he said: "I am sober, all right. I attended a funeral a few days ago, and then decided there was nothing else to live for, so I jumped into the creek. No one cares for me, and I'm just in the way."

Godmother to Famous Gun.

Olympia, Wash.—Mrs. Ernest Lister, wife of the governor of Washington, has accepted an invitation from the battlefields of France to act as godmother in the christening of the first gun in a French battery that has perished with distinction at Verdun, on the Somme and in Flanders, and is still serving in the present drive. In her honor, Mrs. Lister's name will be inscribed on the gun.

RELATIVES OF FALLEN HEROES COMPLAIN OF DELAYS IN GETTING EFFECTS.

Paris.—Complaints have been lodged against the bureau in the Rue Lacroix where relatives of men fallen in the heroic left—the "papiers," their watches, their little keepsakes. All the effects of men killed or missing are sent to this bureau.

The complaint is that there is interminable delay, and efforts are being made to speed it up.

HUN HYDROPLANE TAKEN

This German hydroplane, painted to look like an American machine, was brought down by the gunners of an American transport in the Mediterranean. The pilot and observer were captured and the plane was taken to an allied base.
