Asked whether the grants coordinator was also a lobbyist, Murphy said no; the executive budget has "probasional services" Eems which he uses to hire a professional lebbyist, James Karosh.

In response, Persick asked for a com-nities investigation of the need for a lob-tylet. The vote was 18-4 to refer it to the general government committee.

THE VOTE to overtide Marphy on the conding question was a little closer because of two Republican crossovers.
