But Joe prefers to ride alone, asying it gives him a chance to think about life and what he can do to improve the streets and roads for his leftlow cyclists.
The roadway is for all the people. Joe explains while trying to vert his frustra-tions about motorists who think the streets belong only 10 cars.

"What most motorists don't know is that the law gives the bacyclist the same rights on the road as a car," he continues "It's a never ending problem of trying to develop this idea in the motorists "mont. Traffic on the roadway unit just the motor vibracie, it is the bule, too."

Along with his desire to improve these conditions, he also has several gapes about those with whom he shares the road.

SOMETIMES IT'S JUST on sale on the road because drivers don't know how to react to beychists rading in the street." The says "It's a constant problem of education, both for the motions and the inder."
