Kendallarks will sing again at festival

The Kendallarks Chorus is back again on the Founders Festival bill to perform in the showmobile in Farmington Downtown Shopping Center July 20, at 4-6 p.m. The members' new rendition of Cole Porter's "Anything Goes," will feature dancers Cindy Wern and Carol Venable. "This is a Great Country," "America the Beautiful," and "Appalachian" are also on the program, all under the direction of Kendallarks assistant director Ben Scaglione, with piano accompanist MacCallum.

Included in the program are two original compositions by Lee O'Connor. The Kendallarks quartet, made up of Mary Lee Barnard, Ann Briscoe, Joyce Hodges and Paul Person will sing "Yankee Doodle Dandy," and a "Sound of Music" medley will be rendered by Vickie Klarner and Ms. Wern in Baroque costumes. Betty O'Connor directs the medley.

The group will also be on parade when the Founders Festival parade marches down Grand River July 21, riding in two 1981 Model A Fords.

Auditions for a skilled pianist to accompany the chorus will begin at the end of August. The 25-voice chorus is losing their accompanist this summer, and will need some one, over the age of 18, as a replacement.

Interested parties are asked to contact Mr. O'Connor at 477-3888. President of the group is Olga Miller who will take inquiries on the Kendallarks by calling her at 477-3888.

Meadow Brook ticket awards presented to 5 area women

Rochester women dominated the list of award winners in a subscription sales competition to broaden attendance at the Meadow Brook Festival's summer concert series, taking three of the five awards.

Mrs. Marilyn Brooks won first prize and a weekend for two in Palm Springs, Calif.

Mrs. Pat Gerwert, also of Rochester, took third place and won a pair of Sunday evening season tickets to the Michigan Opera Theater.

Another Rochester woman, Mrs. Jeanette Egehardt, placed fourth and won two opening night season tickets to Meadow Brook Theater.

Winners of the two remaining awards were Mrs. Jerome Krause of Farmington, second place and a weekend for two in Toronto, and Mrs. George Griffiths of Ann Arbor, fifth place and a pair of Thursday evening season tickets to the 18 week 1977 Meadow Brook Music Festival classical concert series.

Mrs. Robert E. Fife, chairman of the women's ticket committee, made the award presentations at a luncheon at Transwell Terrace Cafe Promenade, adjacent to the festival's Baldwin pavilion on the Oakland University campus. Coordinating women's activity with Mrs. Fife is Mrs. F. James McDonald, co-chairperson with her husband, of the Meadow Brook executive committee.

Both Mrs. Fife and Mrs. McDonald are residents of Bloomfield Hills.

Ragmop up for judging

Ragmop, a pet guinea pig owned by Scott Simon, is going into the Founders Festival Pet Show, trying for the title of "Shaggyest Pet." The 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Simon of Farmington took his pet to Plaza Veterinary Hospital this week to have a tooth fixed, then picked up an application blank to enter Ragmop in the competition. Entry blanks are still available through all merchants in the Farmington Plaza Shopping Center. Judging starts at 3 p.m. July 30.
