

JA companies gear up

Every fall young business people sell their friends and relatives stock in companies that are destined to close by spring. But nobody minds because that's the whole idea behind Junior Achievement.

The J.A. companies, which resemble real ones in everything but size only last a year so that more students can participate in setting up a business.

Junior Achievement of Southeastern Michigan is one of the chapters of a nationwide organization that emphasizes training high school students in all business facets. The organization receives financial support from large conglomerates, small businesses and private individuals.

Each J.A. center, such as De Vlieg Center in Royal Oak, Plymouth Center, Redford Center, Rochester Center and Wayne Center, operates in basically the same manner.

STUDENTS MEET each week in the centers, which are equipped with light power tools and workshop equipment, and work with advisors to set up a business.

The product could be anything—from lampshades, to toys to TV shows. And Daks' vested Donegal tweed suit: British to its leather buttons. The somewhat squared-off English cut, turned out by one of its most articulate exponents. The fabric is a Donegal tweed of pure British wool, trimmed with leather on the buttons, buttonholes, and elbow patches. The vest brings it firmly into fall '76, and the price cuts firmly into your checkbook: $225.

WSU career programs move to new center

Practical, non-credit courses in supervision, management, science and technology are being offered by the Birmingham-based Wayne State University's Applied Management and Technology Center.

For the first time, WSU's career enrichment programs will be offered in the Birmingham Center for Continuing Education, 746 Purdy (former Barnum School). Course offerings there are:

- No. 116—Management Principles and Practices I, Thursdays
- No. 115—Supervision and Development of Personnel, Tuesdays
- No. 731—Contract Law (case studies in the uniform commercial code), Mondays
- Planning for the Senior Years, a special course which begins Saturday, Sept. 13, for six weeks.

Troy adventists offer food, clothes

The Troy Seventh-Day Adventist Church, 2775 Crooks Road, is offering a vegetarian food service, and a clothes closet from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Wednesdays at the church.

Used clothing may also be dropped off during that time or by calling 643-9754.

Also, the Troy church choir will join with the Warren Seventh-Day Adventist choir for their dedication service at 3:30 p.m. Sept. 25 at 11100 Thirteen Mile Road, Warren.
