

Multi-function rooms meet family needs

Duncan-Fuller's client needed more family space so the walls were extended and skylights were added.

More and more young families are taking the "family room idea" and expanding its functions with the help of designers and architects.

What results is a versatile space which is combination kitchen, informal dining room and relaxation center for all the members of the family.

Barbara Fuller of Duncan-Fuller Interiors and Ingles and Assoc. both of Birmingham, recently completed rooms which fit the needs of their young clients in Bloomfield Hills.

An ice cream parlor, good-enough-to-eat color scheme livens the living room in the home of Barbara Fuller's clients. Pistachio, peach and lemonade are the colors of her client's "lady-like" living room.

"But come to think of it, men rarely sit in this room, unless there are other people already sitting in it. They retreat to the back of the house where it's
