With the help of a co-director designer, one who can apprenate your his feet, restaurateurs can accomplish the charges which will create an insiting atmosphere throughout the establishment.

Attention must be given to equally important areas such as pathic powder risems, which often book like disaster areas. Such ingularnee causes the customer to wonder what condition the kitchen or cooking area looks like.

THE ADDITION of wallpaper, wall hangings, proper window treatments and good unobtrusive lighting enhance the overall environment and leave the patron a feeling of being in good, as well as clean, hands.

With today's cost of dining out, customers will choose to return to an atmosphere which caters to all of their senses, for the tomachis not allows she prime motivation for eating out. The sivual surroundings need to be equally complementary to the good custome and fine services on as to provide pleasant background for comfight, conversation and cultimary pleasures.

If you use the decorating tools available to create warmth, charm, cheerfulness and cleanliness, the word of mouth will reward your reputation among old customers as well as new ones.

When concentrating on only one service, with total disregard to interior furnishings, you are decreasing business. With a little attention to pleasant deor in all areas, you will draw people to one in. Put on a mee front, a little tinsel as it were, and watch them stand in line.
