Somewhere the sun is shining. . .

And Dodge Colt is where the sun is shin-ing as well as in this messy weather. The 1977 Coltcoupe gets up to 47 mpg highway. 30 mpg city when equipped with the standard 1600 cc engine and four-speed trans-mission. The Mileage Maker coupe comes with a red and white decor package.

But the engine at a speed equivalent to about 30 miles per hour rather than letting it idle. This actually uses less gas for the heat produced and it keeps the battery charged. You will need a well charged battery charged. You will need a well-charged batter and heat great makes the charge later on with your headilghts. After the engine has run for a few munices, turn on the heater and let it run at full temperature for five or six munities. Then shit the cargine did and close the win-the heat. Repeat this only when you feel really uncertofiable from the close. But do at as sparingly as possible. Get out of the car and do sure fairly supposs exercises every had hour or so.
