SIMPLICITY

Simplicity in design and impeccable tailoring should be the spring bywords for the man who wants to have a look of understated elegance.

These are two of the important criteria for the menswear in the new collection of Jordan Kahn Ltd. of West Bloomfield.

Suitings are sophisticated, conservative in color and suited to fine tailoring.

Vests are definitely a part of the collection, both because they add elegance and because they can give a lightweight suit longer life in the rapidly-changing spring weather.

A total look made up of distinctive parts is another major statement of the collection.

Coordinated silk pocket squares, collar bars and a variety of neckwear and shirtings contributed to this look. So do the sportcoats and slacks in carefully-selected colors and fabrics like linen, madras and tropical-weight woolsens.

These should serve different purposes so that in each combination the total effect is put-together and distinctive.

Soft stripes in the suit above impart an elegant touch for spring in either light or dark tones. It's vested to add sophistication. At the right is a casual, comfortable and colorful sports ensemble in tropical wool with a complementary sport shirt.
