YOUNG

Spring is the time when the young find the keynote in fashion. Clothes to jump, run, skip and slide into home base with and clothes in which to go from office to disco are part of today's freewheeling life.

And, fortunately, it's that kind of style on which local clothes shops are concentrating, with an emphasis on the "get back to nature" fabrics.

The army look of the 50s is being revived with khaki shorts and pants outfits. For those ready to take on new adventures, a safari jacket with bermuda shorts in khaki material may lead you to find Dr. Livingston (I presume).

In other new sportswear garb, the "roughing it" look is accented in the menswear type shirts with button down collars in a variety of checks, plaids, stripes and solids, that go great with a pair of jeans, be they skin tight or baggy.

The basic T-shirt is another hot fashion item.

T-shirts in V collars, basic U collars, snap front placket and envelope shoulders in stripes, prints, burn-outs and embroidered stitchings will be around for a long time.

The newest fabric in sports clothes this season is Arrowhead, a blend of polyester and cotton with herringbone weave in the twill.

"Juniors clothes this spring offer a variety of poplins, twills, chinos and chintzes," said Debbie Perilak of Hadley's in Livonia. "The emphasis is on fit—cinched waists, shirtwaists, fit and flare front and back yoke detailing."

Jumpsuits and two-piece gaucho outfits—a split skirt look—is a hot spring item that will definitely lead into the summer.

These outfits are usually found in cottons, linens, poly gab, and calcutta cloth.

Jacqueline Shops of Birmingham is featuring the crisp cut and fabrics of blazers over pants or city shorts with knee socks as a spring fashion that makes sense.

Its casual and sportswear department also reveals continued popularity in T-tops with emphasis on a variety of necklines on deep-V and boat necklines, along with hooded styles and tank tops.

Stripes and banding in a sparkling array of summery colors blend well with the new city shorts, pants and front-button skirts that unbutton as far as you like.

A denim gaucha suit with a menswear blouse is the choice of the young careerist in a relaxing moment. She's adding a hooded windbreaker, just great for those spring gusts.
