Hills group branches out in tree sale

Good things are coming in trees for the Farmington Hills Beautification Commission. Its eighth annual tree sale includes three types of greenery for residents' gardens. Until May 9, residents can order

Patients get chance to judge hospital

By LINDA TAYLOR
West Bloomfield Editor

Patients at Henry Ford Hospital's West Bloomfield Center who think they have to wait too long to see a doctor or feel they are rudely treated now have a recourse.

Visitors to the Maple Road clinic will find consumer appraisal cards in the lobby, business office and waiting areas.

They are asked to judge overall impression of the center including staff, volunteers and service as excellent, average, unsatisfactory or to check the circle labelled "no basis for judgment."

According to the local system's instigator, Medical Director Dr. Charles Wolf, "I will investigate every response. If I get a common complaint, I figure there's a reason for it and will take immediate action."

Dr. Wolf, a pediatrician from Birmingham, said the appraisal cards are not his brainchild. He said he got the idea from the Yale Health Plan, which uses a consumer feedback system.

"Patients should have a way to comment instead of just grumbling and mumbling," he said.

"If they're handled roughly or have to wait too long, I want to know about it," he said.

He added that the center's staff prides itself on not keeping patients waiting, although backups do occur in X-ray and emergency during peak hours.

ANTICIPATING AREAS of complaint, Dr. Wolf said persons may criticize the cost of medical care. "Many don't understand that it costs to use the emergency room. If you're not an adult with a qualifying illness, insurance usually doesn't pay for emergency treatment."

Dr. Wolf said until now, feedback from patients has been mostly hearsay. And then, he said, people don't always say exactly what they mean.

"These cards will be a vehicle for their honest opinions," he said. "It's worth a try. We've given a lot of thought to it. We are in a position to change."

shade trees, ornamental trees and shrubs by completing the coupon and mailing it and a check to Tree Sales, 31555 Eleven Mile, Farmington Hills, 48018. Checks should be made out to the Farmington Hills treasurer.

Trees and shrubs can be picked up at the Steinkopf Nursery, 20815 Farmington Road, between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. on May 14. Residents can have their orders delivered for a $5 fee. The beautification commission suggests that neighbors get together and have several plants delivered to one address.

For those who like to have it made in the shade while the world is sweltering away, the commission offers a selection of four shade trees.

The sugar maple offers shade in summer and sap in the fall, as well as red and yellow autumn foliage. In well drained soil, it grows between 75-100 feet tall.

THE MARSHALL SEEDLESS ash has bright green leaves that turn purplish in fall. It thrives in windy areas and grows to be 60 feet high.

A small tree that grows in any type of soil is the sunburst locust. A hardy tree, it grows rapidly and sports fern-like foliage with yellow tips.

The CRIMSON KING maple is recognized by its red-maroon foliage. In well drained soil, it grows to 60 feet.

For those who want a pretty garden, the commission has four ornamental trees.

The purple leaf plum tree has dark purple foliage all summer. It needs well drained soil to grow.

Flowering crabapple is a hardy tree that will thrive where more delicate trees would perish. Trees with white, pink and red blossoms are offered.

The rose tree of China is a new small ornamental tree. It grows between seven and 10 feet high. In May, it blooms in bright double pink flowers before its leaves come out. This tree will thrive in any good soil.

Mountain ash will bear fruit during the late summer and through fall. In spring, it sports white flowers. In well drained soil, the ash will grow to 35-40 feet high.

A selection of four shrubs round off the commission's '77 sale offerings.

BURNING BUSH or euonymus will grow in any good soil with a sunny location. In September, it has rosy scarlet leaves.

FORSYTHIA is the earliest spring bloomer being offered this year. It has yellow blossoms and can reach 10 feet.

The shrub is hardy and fast growing. Purple leaf plum bush is commonly called sandcherry. It has purplish red leaves all during the growing season. In spring it's covered with light pink blossoms. It grows to a maximum of 10 feet.

Honeysuckle, an upright shrub that grows to six feet is the final selection offered this year. It has rosy pink flowers in May and June. In fall, it's covered with orange-red berries.

Unless otherwise specified, the shade trees grow between 8 to 10 feet. Ornamentals reach four to five feet and the shrubs are usually two to four feet tall.
