CHILDREN

David Starr Jordan says: "There is nothing in all the world so important as little children; nothing so interesting. If you wish to go in for philanthropy, if ever you wish to be of any use in the world, do something for little children. If ever you yearn to be truly wise, study children. We can dress the sick, bandage the wound, imprison the criminal, beat the sick and bury the dead, but there is always a chance that we can save the child. If the great army of philanthropists ever extirpate sin and pestilence, ever work out the race's salvation, it will be because a little child has led them."
