

PNEUMONIA LEFT BOY WEAK AND SICKLY

Parents Were Almost Hopeless, But He Is Now Well and Strong.

"Our little boy's health was so poor we were afraid we were going to lose him. He is ten years old, and has had weak lungs ever since he was eight months old, caused by pneumonia. We have been very careful with him and doctored him continually, but we had almost despaired of ever seeing a strong, well boy."

"But since giving him Mils Emulsion all his trouble is gone, and he is in perfect health."—Mrs. G. W. Emley, 20 Maple St., Dayton, O.

For restoring appetite, health and strength in sickly children, mothers will find Mils Emulsion the thing they have always wanted. It is not a medicine, but a food, because unlike many emulsions and tonics, it really tastes good.

Mils Emulsion is a pure, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and cathartics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Mils Emulsion is strongly recommended to mothers who are weak, and as a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Mils Emulsion under this guarantee: "Give the six bottles here, and if you do not see it according to directions, and if not satisfied with the results your doctor will be promptly refunded. Fifty cents and $1.00 per bottle. The Mils Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by drug stores everywhere.—Adv.

Putting It Over. The servant girl had desecrated most of her.

"I shan't pay it," replied the mistress.

"Very well," replied the servant girl, "I shan't leave, then, until you pay me. I work for you that I don't pay you, because you couldn't afford to keep me any longer."

And fearing that the mistress decided to do without a girl, she herself rather than have her neighbors think she couldn't pay as much money.

URIC ACID IN MEAT CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to get rid of it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or acid headache, dizziness, your stomach sick, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, and to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

The Dead Was Done.

With our baskets full of goodies, a crowd of us enjoy going from house to house and having a picnic dinner. At our last meeting place our hostess was noted for making weak coffee. This worried my husband, who likes his strong. To please him and to go to early and offer to make the coffee. Luck was against me, for when I arrived, she had already made it. My husband, thinking of course, that I had done the deed, looked across the table at me and belovely before them all: "This coffee is simply rotten."—Exchange.

PROBLEMS FACING STRICKEN WORLD

Shall Chaos or Reconstruction in Europe Follow the Great World War?

IMPERATIVE NEED FOR ACTION

Twelve Months Since the Signing of the Armistice Practically Wasted—Call for Aid From America Must Be Heeded.

Article V.

By FRANK COMMERFORD.

The signing of the armistice ended the fighting. The signing of the peace treaty brought peace, but neither of these acts restored devastated Europe. The great job ahead is the work of reconstruction, and when I write "reconstruction," I have not in mind the mere rebuilding of the war-stricken areas of France, Belgium, Italy, Poland and Russia. Gigantic and important as this task is, it is only a small part of the work of real reconstruction. Hundreds of thousands of square miles make up the actual war zone, the land shall lie. Millions of acres of land that once yielded food in response to the touch of the plow have for the past four years been tilted by high explosives.

Belgium was literally totally pillaged and ravaged. Almost the entire state was violated. Nearly one-eighth of France, her industrial section, was crushed. Buildings were destroyed, factories and villages. Sixty thousand square miles in Poland were laid waste. Italy suffered terribly. The ground is filled with high explosives, undischarged mines and shells. Every day since the work of recovery and restoration began men working in this zone have been blown to pieces. Billions of feet of barbed wire and millions of tons of metal make a dangerous wilderness of what was once a highly productive area.

Cities and villages are jungles of twisted, broken, torn wood, iron, brick and stone. I have walked through these villages and have seen the ruins by the completeness of the destruction. The streets are uneven and lumpy with bricks and stones and plaster and glass, piles of wreckage. Roof-tiles have been blown away, and the bags and piles of broken building material; jagged, ragged pinnacles, masses of debris meet the eye. Had I not known of the war and come upon one of these desolately shaped masses of wreckage, I should have thought nature had entered into a mad conspiracy, combining and concentrating all the powers of a cyclone, a tornado and an earthquake, and spilling its fury on these masses of ruins.

Sights in Wrecked Heart.

Picture the refugees returning to these villages—coming back home. What the sight must have meant to them. I have seen them, their faces gray as the gray ruins, standing in the ruins of their homes. I have seen them picking their way over piles of stone and brick through great openings made in the broken walls. I saw in their eyes homesickness, a hurt of heart I never shall forget. Old men and old women and little bare-legged children; now and again a boy with a worn, soiled uniform, some limping on crutches, others wearing an empty cheer. One thought surged through my mind until it almost sickened me: "War. The land of the war zone must be reclaimed. These acres are needed now more than they ever were for the job. The world's food supply is low. Hundreds of miles of trenches must be filled up. Trees must be planted, the ground must be cleared of shells, cleared of wire, villages, cities must be rebuilt; sewer systems must be installed. The mess must be moved. It is a big job. One great misfortune is that although 12 months have passed since the signing of the armistice, no general comprehensive plan of reconstruction has been started. Here and there small sections of the devastated regions are being repaired, but the general reconstruction is being made for the homeless. This is all well and good, but intelligent, economical, efficient and speedy reconstruction demands a general plan and an agency to put it into effect. The plan of the war requires vision and capacity for doing big things well. If the physical reconstruction is left to Europe, it will be a failure. There is a chance for America. We have a faculty of doing things on a big scale and in a short period of time. Europe needs our help. We can give it eventually, why not now?

But the clearing up of the wreckage and the rebuilding is a minor problem compared with the other greater and more important question: the reconstruction of industry, the establishment of normal life. The reclamation of the devastated areas is after all, only a matter of plan, time and money, and notwithstanding the fact that it is a hard money, the money must and will come. The barbed wire will be rolled up, the mines and shells will be dug from the fields, the villages will be rebuilt; everything that has been destroyed will be replaced. Physical reconstruction is the least of Europe's problems.

The great problem is the reconstruction of life. The war-devastated and disordered the life of the world. It threw everything into confusion; it left the scheme out of balance.

Only Road to Prosperity.

We live by work. Prosperity means production. Poverty is underproduction. Stripping economies of all its high-sounding jargon, the simple truth that everyone knows is that the world has only the things it works to produce.

It may not be amiss to state a few facts known by everyone which explain the meaning of production in the world. The only way we can get things is by working. If little work is done we have a shortage. There isn't enough food to go around, there aren't enough clothes, enough coal, and so on. The price of all these necessities goes way up. But this is not so important as the fact that when there is not enough to feed the world, the world is hungry, others must starve. When there is not enough cloth, coats are cold, others freeze. When there aren't enough clothes for everyone, some must be ragged and half-naked. Everything by which we live and poverty follows. Work, and plenty results. Work is responsible for everything that goes to make life worth living.

To understand Europe's condition today, one must stop and realize that the war stopped production. The result is a shortage of everything. There isn't enough food, there isn't enough coal, raw material, there isn't enough clothing. This fact is told in the word Poverty.

Only Cure Is in Work.

There is a cure; the prescription can be written in a single word. Everyone knows that word, but knows it, and adapts the word to different matters. Before we can get back to normal life this word must find root in the consciousness of the people. We must realize that the world will continue to exist and grow only if this prescription is taken. Further, we must know that if we delay taking this remedy it will be a longer time before we get well. The prescription is simple. Every effort should be made to make every man will to work. Every employer must not contribute to unrest and provoke idleness by refusing to negotiate with him, and adopting the word as a recovery agent.
