

The Dope-Slinger's Dream

You may talk about your martyrs.
And your heroes great and small
But to me the patient Druggist
Is the hero of them all.
For he serves the public gladly
They are ever in his debt
And I'd like to ask his pardon
For the thanks he never gets.
"Can you change a dollar, Mister?
Will you watch my parcels, Please?
I'm just going to the grocery
For our supper we want some cheese.
Can I have a drink of water?
Please I'd like to get a loan!
May I use your telephone?
Please, Sir, have you got some samples?
Do you know Philander Philet?
He just moved here from Lansing.
Strange you don't know the street.
May I borrow your umbrella?
From this rain the streets are damp.
Put this fillum in my Kodak.
Hey, give me a two cent stamp.
Will you write a letter for me?
May I have your city guide?
Will you just call up this number?
May I leave my wheel inside?
Do you know where Rogers Street is?
Will you please tell me the time?
Say, what kind of service have they—
On this D. U. R. Line?"
So it goes from morning till evening.
And He's cheerful about it all.
Smiles as though he liked it
And was glad to have you call.
So, I say, he is a hero
Though not scarred in battle's fray.
Pin a medal on the Druggist,
For he earns one every day.

Didn't Quit Business

MERCHANTS and clerks, store and office employees, factory workers, housekeepers and other indoor workers are subject to kidney trouble—particularly if middle-aged or older. Mr. John Malton, Copperopolis, Calif., writes:

"I had a very severe case of kidney trouble and for a time thought I would have to sell out my business, as I could hardly stand on my feet. I used three bottles of Foley Kidney Pills, and they entirely cured me, and I have never had a recurrence of kidney trouble since. I certainly can recommend Foley Kidney Pills."

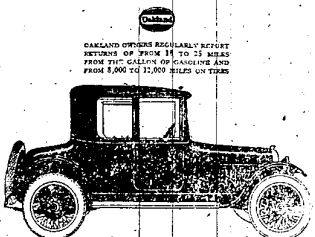

Poor health is the worst handicap a man of women can have in life, and good health is impossible if the kidneys are out of order.

Foley Kidney Pills

The kidneys must do their allotted task continuously without fail if the blood stream is to be kept free from poisonous waste matter that Nature intends to be filtered out and washed from the body. When the kidneys become inactive, sluggish, slow on the ordered in any way, the blood stream becomes infected with impurities that cause backache, rheumatic pains, stiff or swelling joints, sore muscles, lameness, pinpoints under eyes, spots in vision, nervousness, weakness, irritability of the bladder, watery or dry skin, bad odor of perspiration or other symptoms.

Try Foley Kidney Pills—a safe, useful and reliable medicine that cleans, strengthens and invigorates inactive, sluggish or diseased kidneys.
