

ASPIRIN—Its Uses

First Introduced by "Bayer" in the Year 1900

The name "Bayer" identifies the true, world-famous Aspirin prescribed by physicians for nineteen years. The name "Bayer" means genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions of people.

In each unbroken package of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" you are told how to safely take the genuine Aspirin for Colic, Headache, Toothache, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, and Pain generally.

Always say "Bayer" when buying Aspirin. Then look for the safety "Bayer Cross" on the package and on the tablets.

Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets each, but a few cents. Drug-gists also sell larger packages.

Aspirin is a trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing Company, Ltd., of Germany.

Electricity in Next War.

That the use of high explosives in modern warfare has about reached the end of its development, is the opinion of a French inventor of one powerful compound of that nature. No other can produce gases, it is indicated, be made much more dangerous than were those contrived in the world war. Physic mechanisms of various types promising much greater power, and it is probable that any new developments in scientific warfare visible in the next international disagreement will be electrical in their nature. Electricity is used in the last war in relatively small—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Its Efficacy.

"Talk about your patent medicines," said Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, "I had cancer in my leg and my heart. I got 'em all beat. I got 'em all beat."

"Well, I've noticed that when any of our 14 children complain of being tired, to do some task or nether and who gathers a spoon and potches for the cancer in the bottle, that there child is cured that minute, no matter if there hasn't more than three drops in the bottle."—Kansas City Star.

Additional Appellation.

"Mrs. Johnson (impatiently)—Glad you do, honey, you lazy, good to nothing. You ought to be ashamed of yourself sitting down all day watching your wife make de libbin' for the family. Bastard (with a whine)—You didn't answer me to get day ago? you was married. You never call me sugar, den."

"Mrs. Johnson—Yes, an I calls you sugar now—loaf-sugar. Dat's what you is loaf-sugar."—Boston Transcript.

PROBLEMS FACING STRICKEN WORLD

Shall Chaos or Reconstruction in Europe Follow the Great World War?

HOPE FOR PERMANENT PEACE

Those Who Fought, and Those Who Suffered at Home, Allege Favor Some Form of a League of Nations.

Article X.

By FRANK CONERFORD.

Europe was succumbing to exhaustion when the war came to an end. The terrible waste was telling. Endurance had reached the breaking point. With peace one thought ran through the minds of those who had no more war. The men who did the fighting said it loud.

"I'm glad I had a chance to do my part—I wouldn't have missed the 'show' for a million dollars, and I wouldn't take a million dollars to go through it again," is the way they put it. Everywhere in Europe I heard, "It is over, it is finished, thank God."

The first thought of reconstruction was a plan to make peace permanent. The laboratory and the machine shop gave to this war a terrible meaning, new agencies had been introduced to kill and maim men, liquid fire, mustard gas, high explosives, bombs from the clouds, torpedoes from the sea depths. The world was horrified. The length of the war, the number of dead and crippled, the raiding and bombing of defenseless cities, the thought that an end must be put to war if civilization was to live.

So the people, particularly the working people, took heart when a League of Nations was suggested as a means of enforcing peace. They placed their hopes in it. They had suffered most from the war. The dead were largely their dead. The returning cripples were blood of their blood. As they put it, they were from their class. The younger sons of the other class fought, shared the hardships, paid the price, but they were few. The group from which they came is small, while the toll of casualties from labor's ranks was large.

All men know that controversies between nations are inevitable. In the absence of some scheme of arbitration there is but one way that these controversies can be settled. It is force—war.

It is not uncommon for individuals to have serious differences of opinion. Every lawsuit, and there are thousands of them in every city of every country, represents a difference of opinion. If we did not have courts providing a peaceful determination of these disputes, the litigants would be compelled to settle their differences by force—assault and battery would succeed orderly procedure. Nations have followed without a peaceful means of adjusting their difficulties, and as a consequence they have been compelled to resort to force. Until some scheme of arbitration is created, to take peace is to waste words, to hope for it is idle dreaming.

Peace Conference Fell Short.

The peace conference met in Paris. Labor watched it. At an early stage in its proceedings intrigue was discovered at work. Wrangling, bickering, bargaining and trading for commercial advantage occupied the time and thought that the world expected would be devoted to the building up of a league that would at least decrease the chances of future wars.

Men in their blind devotion to expediency lost sight of the great principle for the conference. They talked of boundary lines, discussed frontiers, and always from the point of view of financial and military advantage to their respective countries. It was noticed that the territories over which they quarreled were rich in minerals or some other thing of great commercial advantage. They squabbled over spoils. Then, too, there were men who were supposed to be concerned in the future peace of the world, in argument over frontiers urged their respective claims on the grounds that their respective countries needed these frontiers to make them secure in future wars. What future wars and why the discussion of future wars at a conference, the object of which was future peace?

Working men watched, listened and thought. They constructed these bickering and wranglings as evidence of the fact that there is an interest in the world which does not believe in giving up force. I am only reporting the truth when I add that I suspect this interest is Capital.

If the League of Nations fails this suspicion will be confirmed. The movement toward an internationalism of the workers will be given great impetus. The League of Nations failing, they argue there is only one other means of preventing war. It is for the men who make up the rank and file of the armies in time of war, the millions recruited from shops, factories and fields, to get together and organize an international labor authority to save the working men from such a movement would take away from governments an important and necessary function and give to one class in the world a power as great that political governments would be puppets in their hands, and yet in the light of the happenings of the last five years labor could not be blamed. The world is entitled to protection against such slaughter as we have just gone through, and if the political governments fail to take the necessary steps the plain people will.

World Now Closely Knit.

Internationalism is coming—in fact it is already here. Inventions have brought the people of the world close together. The wireless and the cable connect the happenings of remote parts of the world in a few hours. Distance has been destroyed. We are becoming neighbors in knowledge of each other, whether we live on the same continent or not. Modern transportation is shortening the time between places. An air service is in prospect which promises to make London as near New York tomorrow as Chicago today.

We already have a successful internationalism in finance and credit. Big business long ago obliterated national lines. The commerce of the world is already organized internationally.

The important question at this time is what form will the new internationalism take? Will it be an internationalism of organized dollars? If so, the world is in serious danger of a financial dictatorship. Will it be an internationalism of organized labor? If so, this happens it means the dictatorship of the proletariat. Both are equally undesirable. No part of the people should be permitted to enforce their will upon the rest. One kind of slavery is as bad as another. The great majority of the human race wants freedom, not advantage. It is not anxious to dilute—it will not be done.

A League of Nations is the solution. It is a union of the nations of the world, and as the nations of the world represent all the people of the world, it is a union of the people of the world. That it is necessary is plain. Rivalry for markets, competition for trade, are bound to lead to war unless we have an agreement that those and other problems will be submitted to arbitration. It is not necessary to submit questions involving national honor. Few of these questions ever directly provoke war. It is when nations fighting for other markets reach a point of positive disagreement that they begin calling each other names. These insults wound honor, war results.

Peace Table Proves Worth.

A League of Nations is a continuation of the peace table, and as the peace table has proved its worth in Europe before this it was not sitting in Paris. Two cases arose to illustrate. The coal fields of upper Galicia, to be determined by a plebiscite between Poland and Germany would have been a cause of war if the peace table was not in existence. Poland had troops on the border. Germany had her soldiers at the frontier. One thing, and one thing alone, prevented war—the peace table. The same facts described the controversy between Poland and Czechoslovakia; war has been avoided by the peace table submitting the Teutonic question to a vote of the people of the territory.

No League of Nations will have much effect upon the future peace of Europe, which does not include the United States. The nations of Europe do not trust each other. Every one respects the fact that the United States does not seek territory in Europe. This gives our country the commanding place as the one disinterested power in the world. With this moral force we can do much to maintain the peace of the world.

The propaganda of revolution coming out of Bolshevik Russia, urging the workers to organize an international dictatorship of the proletariat and seize the world, is not nearly as dangerous to the peace of the world as the political heckling against the League of Nations.

TAXES IN GERMANY HEAVY

Individuals Are Beginning to Feel That Country Really Suffered Defeat in the War.

The individual German has not begun to feel the peace terms, financially.

During the war the Germans have been losing their money to the government. This year they have begun to give it.

There is an estate tax graduated as to size and as to relationship. It imposes the heaviest tax on the largest inheritance from the most distant relative.

A peculiar feature of this law, illustrating its severity, is a provision that in no case may the tax exceed the amount of the inheritance tax. The amount of the inheritance tax is the amount which can leave "spite money" which would compel the recipient to pay more, than he got, anyhow.

An income tax ranges to about 70 per cent on the income.

There is a profits tax and a heavy tax on wealth increases during the war—to get the producers—the usual means for revenue, heavier than ever and a casual levy is being considered. With food, coal and clothing short they are bound to add to the discontent. Agitators will make the most of the crisis.

But Germany has weathered two crises as serious: In the most difficult months just after the surrender a year ago; and the peace conference period when she woke up, as loser, to the terms.

ADD TO INCOME OF FAMILY

Figures of Department of Labor Show That Many Wives Have Other Than Household Duties.

In a survey of family incomes, in nearly 100 cities of the United States, the Department of Labor found that in Johnston, N. H., three-quarters of the wives earn money. The Labor Review explains that this remarkable condition prevails in Johnston because glove making is the principal industry there and furnishes work for women who can do at home. This appeals to them because they are able to earn good wages without leaving their households.

In almost one-sixth of the New York city homes visited women contributed earnings toward the support of the home. In Boston one wife out of ten works; in Buffalo one in twenty-eight; in Cleveland and Cincinnati one in seven, and in Pittsburgh only one in five. It is interesting to note that investigators found that a surprisingly large percentage of town dwellers derive some income from gardens and poultry. Ninety-three per cent of those visited in Cleveland had a garden or chickens.—Turist Magazine.

One kind of slavery is as bad as another. The great majority of the human race wants freedom, not advantage. It is not anxious to dilute—it will not be done.

Hone Your Own Razor

as perfectly as the best barber. You can make it give you faster, better shaves than ever before. An expert barber has invented a hone that ANY man can use and thousands of hard whiskered men who never before tried to hone their razors are writing us asking how they can get it. They are getting since they honed up their old razors on it.

Perforated Hone

The secret of this is the "holes" or perforations in its surface. This very simple patented idea is what produces a perfect shaving edge. FREE FROM WIRE EDGE, every time you hone up your razor. With the old plain hone it takes an experienced barber to know just how to stop honing, but with this Perforated Hone you don't have to "know" anything you can't go wrong—you can't OVER-hone. These little holes trim off the rough wire edge that comes from OVER-honing, and leave a keep, smooth shaving edge that is a revelation even to professional barbers. Price only 25c.
