Tell the Observer, inform the whole town

When you submit information for an article in the Farmington Observer, keep in mind the following pointers. By heeding these recommendations, you will save delays and avoid errors.

•Be certain you give us complete information. It's better to submit too much information than too little.

•When an individual's name is to be used in the article, be sure to give us the first and last name. For instance, you and the members of your church may know that Rev. Smith's first name is John, but our other readers, as well as our staff, may not.

•Be certain that the information is readable. Illegible information is the prime cause of errors in any newspaper.

•Be sure to include your own name and phone number. If we have any questions, we will have a way to check the information.

•If you plan to submit a photograph with an article, be sure that it's a good one. A sharp black-and-white photo is best. Polaroids fail to reproduce well in the newspaper. Color photos will work if they are in focus and have good contrast.

•The earlier you submit your materials, the better chance it has to get in the paper. News deadlines are Tuesdays for Thursday editions and Fridays for Monday editions. Suburban Life deadlines are advanced one day.

•Submit news information and articles to this address: Farmington Observer, P.O. Box 69, Southfield, Michigan 48067.

•To phone news or information to the editorial department, call 352-5400. To start, stop, or cancel a subscription, call the circulation department at 261-3800. To place a classified ad in the paper, call the classified department at 322-9900. For information concerning display or retail advertisements, call the advertising department at 261-8500.
