

Anne Klein's easy elegance. It's what you've always loved about sportswear: the unabashed glamour of dressing simply—but perfectly. And now, with the advent of the soft blazer, carried to the Nth degree! From Donna Karan and Louis Dell'Olio, a blazer so soft it has sweater sleeves. Merely push them to the elbow. Give the lapels a nonchalant roll. That's all the shape it has—all the shape you need! Blue cotton cord, '220. The shirt, doily-edged and falling away from your neck, in creamy flax and polyester, '130. The box-pleated skirt, as proper as a school-girl's, were it not cotton and silk; in blue, '130. All sized 4 to 14. Anne Klein Corner.
