

About Ambiance

Ambiance, often used to describe the atmosphere of a favorite restaurant, this spring becomes a word for fashion. It reflects an attitude, a feeling, a mood brought on by feeling and looking good in the clothes you wear.

For our cover, we mixed the ambiance of the Detroit Zoological Park birdhouse with spring's freshest look of beige wool gabardine suits, modeled by Karen and John Street. Her four-piece ensemble was designed by Krizia and is from Claire Pearone. His vested suit is from Hudson's.

The couple has lived in Birmingham for 17 years. Aside from raising their family of two boys, the Streets are involved in the community activities.

The cover was photographed by Stephen Cantrell, who also shot all inside photographs except those on pages 26, 30 and 34 which were shot by Dick Kelley. 'Ambiance' was written by Rustle Shand, Observer & Eccentric fashion writer. The section was coordinated by Christine Walden and Marie Megee. Keith La Rochelle, Observer & Eccentric Art Director, designed the cover. Margaret Shaib coordinated the advertising. For shopping information, call 644-1100.
