

Furniture refinishing

A class called "Furniture Refinishing" returns to Farmington Community Center with instructor Harold Richardson (center) who takes the fear away from refinishing a precious antique or a valued piece of furniture. He demonstrates how it's done to Robert Tandy and Marty Karabell, while preparing for his spring sessions that will be given on Monday evenings beginning April 3. Registration is necessary, by calling the center at 477-8404.

Portrait and figure painted Jerine Habsburg (left) chats with Mr. and Mrs. James Hieckley in Farmington Community Center about Ms. Habsburg's spring course. A member of the Farmington Artists

Portraits by Habsburg

Club, Palette and Brush Club and the Garret Gallery, the instructor teaches all levels of skills. Classes begin April 5. Registrations are taken by calling the center, 477-8404.

Annuities aren't just for the wealthy.

Anyone concerned about outliving his capital—or losing it—has reason to check out the advantages of a fixed-income annuity. Guaranteed payments at regular intervals, the use of as much of your capital as you like, freedom from worry about market fluctuations and the need for day-to-day financial management—these are some of the reasons why even people with limited capital have found that an Equitable annuity makes sense for them.

What's more, a substantial part of the annuity payments is not includable in income for tax purposes. Today, more than 300,000 people are enjoying the advantages of Equitable's fixed-income annuities. For information on the types available and the ways in which they can meet your personal security objectives, ask your Equitable agent. There is no obligation, of course.

Telephone us today and give us your exact birthdate or birthdates, or return the coupon. We'll send you figures unless you wish to see us. Figures available from $50 a month.
