West Point cadet's visit spurs spontaneous reunion

By LORAINE McCLISH

Fifteen Farmington Hills Girl Scouts were called back together for a spon-taneous reunion to visit Karen Kinzler on her spring break from United States Military Academy at West Point

Cadet Kinzler was a member of the troop during 1970-71 and later was admitted to West Point with the first wave of females enrolled in the acad-

She has completed her first year of hazing, traditionally a rough time for all cadets, and has aspirations of becoming one of the first female offi-cers in military intelligence.

A native of Hawaii, Cadet Kinzler spent a year on the mainland with her mother's chilhood frierd, Judy Cleveland, in her home at 31sH Rockycrest. It was her mother's wish that her daughter spend some time in an area where she was not among the minority.

During that time she was a ninth grade student at Farmington Junior High School and a member of Mrs. Cleveland's girl scout troop.

MRS. CLEVELAND led the troop with Edy Davis and Fred Monroy.

Monroy was unable to get to the reunion because he is hospitalized, so the reunion was brought to him.

"The staff at M. Siani went out of their way getting us a room to use for reunion," Ms. Cleveland said. "They wouldn't let him leave, but they certainly made things pleasnt for us while we were there, and of course the reunion wouldn't have been complete without him."

Mrs. Cleveland was pleased with the response she got from the former Girl Scouts who are scattered around numerous colleges now, though none are on as tight a schedule as Cadet Kirzler. School for her is 12 months a year, and 24 hours a day.

"There is no after-school at West Point," she said.

The military-minded miss was in an ROTC pilot program, stemming from her studies at the University of Hawaii, when the announcement was first made that women were going to be accepted at West Point.

A battery of tests and interviews on numerous mental and physical levels came before her congressional

She pursued the goal because she said, "I was impressed with what the military is doing and I want to be a part of it. I am impressed with the training. I am learning my own limits and learning fast what not to do when I am in a leadership position."

EVEN SO, she followed by saying "It has not been all roses. I don't think the guys (at the eadenty were ready for the girls in their classes. They didn't know what to do with us. It's always rough on plebes but it was doubly rough on us. Maybe it will be easier for the next class and the swinging pendulum will eventually steady itself."

The man-woman ratio at West Point is now 40-to-l, and though Cadet Kin-zler didn't know any specifics on the drop-out rate, she believed it was "only slightly higher for women than men."

When we met her she was wearing her blue and gray snappy blazer with her class crest, slim tailored skirt and jewelery of her choice, regulation for casual wear.

"I'm in uniform all the time she said, "West Point pajamas, West Point shoes, West Point gym clothes, West Point everything."

"I was impressed with what the military is doing and I wanted to be a part of it." — Karen Kinzler (Staff photos by Harry Mauthe)

time, each time, on singles club agenda Good

By DIANE ABRAMS
All you single people who have been hibernating on weekends, now is a good time to come out and make you presence known. There is a group out here that's interested in you, and it's here that's interested in you, and it's not just because you're available, nice looking or 'a good catch."

Birmingham's Culture 124 S. Wood S. Wood Control 124 S. Wood S. Wo opportunity.

"THE WHOLE CONCEPT of the opportunity.

"THE WHOLE CONCEPT of the club is based on getting people involved in doing things," said Kulesza. "More people are interested in cultural activities than in meeting other people. Members are not permitted to bring dates, because it tends to make others feel uncomfortable. We want to maintain an atmosphere with the properties. The club, which started out Nov. 1978, doesn't restrict the age of its members. This, Kulesza believes, adds further to the diversity of the group. Although the average age is beween 30 and 40 years, younger and older members also belong. The crowd varies depending on the activity, he said. Scheduled meetings take place once a month at Cabaret Concerts, Each event also includes personal contains with the performing artist. The Cultural way of the containing experiences believe wanting learning experiences believe wanting learning experiences but 41 for guests.

"The Cabaret Concert programs are certs, for instance, are $3 for members and $4 for guest.

"The Cabaret Concert programs are oriented to involve the audience," he said. "When people are actually a part owhat's going on, they sometime perceive more than if they're just viewing a performer. Not too long ago we had a mime instructor who really got the audience to respond. It becomes a two way thing, and everybody benefits."

WHEN NO SPECTIFC outlings are scheduled, the members individually organize events through at least 18 different sub-groups. Everything from gourmet cuisines, to chess, back-gammon, discussion groups and chi-drens programs are available. A phone call to any of the sub-groups informs members of what's going on around town.

"The club acts as a cultural referral

around town.

"The club acts as a cultural referral service: The sub-groups give people away to get involved with each other. They also extend the list of possible cultures, and a group can be formed. We are also extend the list of possible cultures, and a group can be formed. We can be considered to the control of the

any place the club considers before referring it to others.

EVERY MONTH both members and guests are invited to a savoring brunch. Usually the get together takes place at the Middown Cafe, in Birmingnam, aithough the locations vary. Following brunch the group departs on a mystery trip that guarantees a good time, every time, he said.

But perhaps the most unusual and exciting thing the club offers is enchanting travel opportunities. There are not just trips, they're culturally oriented ventures that enter a new world of artistic enjoyment. On April 9, the group will depart on a European just that promises 12 operas in seven countries. On so lo mio!

These and other activities, specifically oriented to single people, make fulsers believes. They club's greatest strength, he added, is that all of the members share a common love of the arts. This is particularly evident in Frances Lundin, associate director of the club.

the club.

Together Lundin and Kulesza make a dedicated team. Both are devoted to providing singles an opportunity to be with people. There is none of the usual singles scene social pressure to obtain a phone number or be asked out.

"THROUGH THE Culture Club real friendships can develop, whereas with the bar scene, everything is quick and usually all show. The club offers something deeper, an ongoing thing," said Lundin. "We think of people as indi-viduals, without dividing them up or separating men from women. Kulesza estimates that there are Kulesza estimates that there are probably more women in the club than men. He attributes this to the fact that the average man is divorced two years before re-marrying, and the average woman is divorced about four years. "Woman are more apt to try something like this, but once men get involved, they usually become hooked.

Women have to realize that they don't necessarily have to have a man around to have a good time," said

Lindin.

Kulesza, once regional president of Parents Without Partners, feels that the Culture Club is especially advantageous to long time singles.

"RECENTLY DIVORCED people naturally go through an adjustment period, and are often times unsure of bow to cope with their new situation.

The Culture Club offers a multitude of activities, but they are perhaps most enjoyable to those who have come to terms with themselves," Kulesza said. "Sometimes we can suggest other groups that can more adequately fit the needs of certain individuals. The Culture Club is living proof that it is possible to go out and have a good time, without feeling cheated because you didn't meet anyone."

The membership fee is currently S5, but will be increased as of April 1. In the meantime, the club is offering a special charter membership program.

"Our members come from all over."
Kulesza said. "We encourage residents from everywhere to join. Some are from Dearborn, others from Grosse Pointe, and still others from right here in Birmingham. It's a funting, and it's different.
"With a large group like this, you can always find somebody to do something, It's no fun to go places alone, and with the Culture Club, nobody has to be alone."

Planting seminar

set April 15

A planting seminar called "It Might As Well Be Spring" has been planned by Farmington bettification committee, open to the community without carego.

10 to 10 to

Stained glass course offered

The Farmington Hills Parks and Recreation Department is accepting registrations for a new stained glass art class.

registrations for a new statined glass riclass.

Classes will be from 8:309:30 p.m., April 10-May 15 at Shiawassee Elementary School, 30415 Shiawassee Road. There is an $8 fee.

The course will be an introduction to the fundamentals of working with glass. Included will be the processes of citting, wrapping and soldering with a special emphasis placed on design and use of the copper foil technique, The course will be taught by Judy Pleck and Linda Marx. For further information, call 474-6115.

Harrison scores best possible

The Harrison High School Symphony Band walked away from the annual band festival this spring with the high-est possible rating the musicians could score.

The ratings were given for selections
the group had chosen to play and also in sight reading efforts.

The festival is not a competition against other bands but given to rate groups

groups.
Under the direction of Paul Barber, the band played "The Duke of Cambridge March," "Incantation and Dance" and "Second Suite in F."

Safety certificate offered to boatmen

The Farmington Hills Parks and Recreation Department, in cooperation with the Michigan Department, of Natural Resources, offers a Boating Safety Clinic, which will conclude with a safety certificate awarded to the participants. The two-part clinic is set to run from 7 to 10 p.m. April 12 and 19, in Farmington Hills City Hall, 31555 Eleven Mile.

Our getting ready for warm weather sale! We've got dresses and tees — in colors and prints — galore...

Ior little gild ready to run with the sun! Pierre Cardin's littles tee: a super crewneck insignia'd on the sleeve; in more colors than you could shade shovel at! In polyester and cotton, sizes 8 to 14, regularly 18, now 5.40, Our fresh, and charmings undress for young girls soon to be young ladies a haltered prastore in a choice of garden-bright prints, in polyester and cotton for sizes 7 to 14.

Saks Fifth Avenue, Troy, Somerset Mall, Big Beaver at Coolidge, open Mondays, Thursdays and Fridays until 9 PM.

Photographique society exhibits spring show

Michael O. Jones, of Farmington, is among the seven photographers whose prints have been selected for an April exhibition by the Creative Photograph-ique Society of Michigan. Called "A Medley for Spring," the exhibition consists of 30 color and monochrome photographs by society members. It is shown in the gallery section of the Eye Browse Book Store, 3006 Northwestern Highway, West Rhoomfield 3306 Northwestern ringmay, west Roomfield.

Mare Winkelman and Donna Mala-mad, co-owners of the Eye Brosse, said they have selected the exhibition for showing because of the variety it contacts that the second of the con-traction of the control of the con-trol of the con techniques that seven different photographers apply to their art form." Jones, an engineer on Ford Motor Company's menufacturing staff, is a former newspaper photographer. He is one of the founding members of the Creative Photographique Society endichigan, which was organized two years ago.

The society is devoted to teaching and promoting photography as an art.

OTHER MEMBERS with prints in the exhibition are Dr. Charles Ellont, of Huntington Woods; Ross Lindsay of Rochester; Alan Lowy of Berkley; and Dr. William Lessaline, James Holmes, and Joseph Comps, all of Livonia. The exhibition, will run through the month of April.