Tax amendment explained

(Editor's note: The following are highlights of the tax limitation amendment that will probably appear on the November ballot.)

Except for adjustments for inflation, state government will not be allowed to spend more than its present share of state gross per-sonal income. Adjustments upward for inflation will be determined by sonal income. Adjustments upward for inflation will be determined by the consumer price indice. The formula is: State spending divided by group personal income equals this side of the state of the sta

 The total amount of property taxes collected by any local taxing unit of government will not increase unless the voters of that taxing unit agree. Increases will be allowed for inflation as determined by the consumer price index. • If property values rise, the mil-lage rate will be reduced propor-tionately so that each local unit of government receives the same amount of money as the year the amendment passes. New tax base lage rate as it is entered on the tax rolls. Internal adjustments within each local government unit for equity as performed by the local assessor will continue.

 Bonds cannot be issued for operating funds of a local governmental unit unless approved by the voters.
