MRS. TERRY M. PETTY
(Jeanette Louise Plymale)

Petty - Plymale Vows Spoken By Candlelight

A recent candlelight ceremony in Plymouth Wesleyan Methodist Church united Jeanette Louise Plymale and Terry M. Petty in marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Dalton Plymale of Portis Road, Plymouth, are parents of the bride, and the bridegroom is the son of Hollie Petty of Salt Lake, Utah.

The Rev. Keith Somers heard the couple's vows.

THE BRIDE, given by her father in marriage, wore a lace gown with round neckline, long sleeves and cathedral train. A circlet of flowers held her bouffant veil and her flowers were white carnations.

Kathy Murphy, wearing turquoise chiton with white lace trim, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids, dressed like her, were Mrs. Ellen Petty and Mrs. Joyce Schacht. All carried round bouquets of blue and white carnations.

Dale Petty was best man and the guests were seated by Charlie McFarland and Leroy Schacht.

MRS. PLYMALE wore a lace dress of champagne beige with matching shoes.

After a reception for 100 guests held in the home of the bride's parents, the couple left for a two-week Tennessee honeymoon. The new Mrs. Petty is a 1968 graduate of Plymouth High School. Her husband is serving with the U.S. Marine Corps.

They're Engaged

The Bemba tribes a powerful African nation, have a marriage contract which must be performed by a young man who wishes to marry a Bemba maiden. He must first send presents of money at regular intervals to his prospective bride's father for a year or more before she has reached marriageable age, and he must then work for him as a laborer for at least another year. When he has finished his work period, the marriage ceremony is performed, but he is still not accepted as a genuine son-in-law. He lives in his wife's village for a trial period of from 4 to 5 years and his in-laws send him small gifts when they are pleased with him. When he has received enough gifts, his in-laws finally decide to accept him as a full-time son-in-law, and strangely enough, it is only after being finally accepted as a member of his wife's village, that he can then remove his wife and children to his own village.

If you too, are about to enter into a marriage contract, then Orin Jewellers is the place to help you launch this complicated social event - because Orin's will provide you completely authenticated information on every phase of correct Wedding Procedure.

It takes time to plan a Wedding properly and Orin's time is at your disposal - to help make your Wedding Day the happiest day of your life. Come in to Orin Jewellers and let's start planning now!
