

LIT dean receives award

Dr. Stephen R. Davis, dean of Lawrence Institute of Technology's School of Engineering, has been chosen "Michigan engineer of 1979" by the Engineering Society of Detroit.

Davis, of Belleville, will be honored at a Feb. 21 awards banquet. His selection was made by a committee of society members and leaders from the business, industrial and academic worlds.

As dean of engineering since 1973, Davis has used his industrial experience to modify the Southfield-based college's curriculum to meet career requirements of industry. The engineering school offers baccalaureate degrees in construction, electrical and mechanical engineering.

LIT's engineering school has achieved national recognition under Davis, who has initiated and supported student and faculty affiliation with professional societies.

A nationally known lecturer, Davis is a consultant for the U.S. Army Tank Automotive Command, U.S. Department of Energy, U.S. Department of Defense, Argonne National Laboratory, Forging Industry Association and the DuPont and Westinghouse companies.

Davis earned degrees from Drexel University, the University of Delaware and the University of Illinois. He was a principal design engineer for Ford's truck division and director of technical planning in research and engineering at Cummins Engine Co. before going into teaching.

He has taught at the universities of Delaware and Illinois and was associate dean of graduate studies and research at Wayne State University before joining LIT.

Road officials promise relief for residents

The construction project on Telegraph near Fourteen Mile will soon be less inconvenient for residents of Franklin's Dorchester subdivision, thanks to an agreement reached Friday between village authorities and the state highway department.

The 57-home subdivision has three streets, two of which were blocked by the construction. The village sued the state and contractor L.W. Edison in Oakland County Circuit Court three weeks ago, arguing that the limited accessibility posed a serious safety hazard should the subdivision need emergency fire or police services.

Franklin Trustee Stewart Katz said Monday that the agreement will open the closed streets, North Cromwell and South Cromwell, for limited use.

The state will pave N. Cromwell so drivers can exit the subdivision onto Telegraph, Katz said, and S. Cromwell will have a gravel base extended to Telegraph to provide access for emergency vehicles only. The curb blocking both streets will be removed, Katz added. Tudor Lane will remain open for entering and exiting the subdivision.

KATZ SAID Dorchester residents are pleased with the agreement which has been okayed by the village council and needs only the "expedient implementation of the state."

The agreement is the second out of court settlement concerning Franklin residents and the Telegraph Road construction. In October six residents filed suit to stop destruction of the old road surface with a large iron ball, which they claimed created vibrations damaging their homes.

The Telegraph Road widening project stretches from Twelve Mile to Orchard Lake Road. It is expected to be completed in late 1980 at a cost of $17 million.

Chief offers holiday tips

Overcrowded streets and stores, last-minute shoppers and foul weather could pose a hazard during the holiday rush.

In a special appeal for public observance of a few preventive safety measures, Police Chief Edward Rittenour and the International Association of Chiefs of Police advise shoppers to plan enough time when tackling overcrowded stores and urge motorists to be on the lookout for pedestrians during bad weather.

Institute Day set Jan. 22

"The Human Factor" will be the theme of the 4th annual institute day at Congregation Beth Achin on Monday, Jan. 22. The event is sponsored by the sisterhood.

Opening the day's agenda will be a 9:30 a.m. registration and coffee session. At 10 a.m. Dr. F. Paul Pearsall, Ph.D. will speak on "The Problems of Daily Living Clinic: Preventive Psychiatry."

Dr. Bruce Danto, director of the Suicide Clinic will speak at 1 p.m. on Party hosts and hostesses should serve food with all alcoholic beverages, they said. Overindulgence at the bar is definitely to be discouraged.

If you or a friend have been drinking, arrange for someone else to do the driving.

"And above all, the best present you can give a loved one is you," Rittenour said. "So don't forget your basic safety knowhow, even in the spirit of the holidays."

"Suicide, Why?"

Cost of the institute will be $7.50 for the entire day. A baby sitting service will be available for children three years or older. Reservations must be made in advance.

Reservations should be received by Jan. 17 and can be mailed to: Sisterhood Institute Day, Cong. Beth Achin, 21100 Twelve Mile, Southfield 48076.
