ATION OF RETIRED SCHOOL PERSONNEL meet at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 9, in Ten Mile Community School, on Ten Mile, east of Farmington Road.

FARMINGTON ARTISTS CLUB hosts graphic designer Christopher Elliott when the group meets at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 10, in Farmington Community Library on Twelve Mile.

The meeting is open to all interested persons.

Elliott's talk is called "The Transition from Art School to the Real World."

He is advertising and promotion director for TransWal Systems, in Troy. He is responsible for creative conception and production of all national magazine advertising, exhibits, seminars and promotion of products within the company.

He believes chances for success in the fine arts are few and he hopes to help his audience learn how to use their creative abilities and still survive.

Seminar for divorced and separated is set

Paula Ripple, executive director of the North American Conference of Separated and Divorced Catholics, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 24, in Mercy Center, 28600 Eleven Mile.

Her topic is "Divorce: The Pain and the Possibility" taken from the title of her book, which is an affirming and healing guide for the divorced and separated, their parents and relatives, neighbors and friends.

The open evening meeting follows a daytime session for clergy and other pastoral staff workers.

Along with a selection of divorced persons, she will deal with the loss as experienced by the divorced, looking at the limitations of the annulment process as well as its potential for healing.

She will discuss remarriage, and the divorced persons' expectations of their minister and church.

Cost is $3 per person. Registrations

PAULA RIPPLE and information inquiries will be taken by calling Ms. Fertel at 476-8010.
