

Guides Will Sell Popcorn

FARMINGTON
The Indians are coming — but they're coming in peace. And they won't be big swarthy guys — They'll be pint-sized Indian braves.

The invasion takes place Nov. 1 through 24 when the YMCA Indian Guides will be holding their annual popcorn sale.

The boys will sell $1 containers of unpopped corn door-to-door in their own neighborhoods. They will be dressed in Indian headbands, complete with feathers.

The popcorn sale is the only fund-raising project the Indian Guides have. Proceeds completely support the program.

From 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday, the little Indians will be getting their containers at the YMCA building on Grand River. Officialing will be Nation Chief Larry Wilks, assisted by Federation Chief Bob Ostos and Dave Comfort of the YMCA.

Schools Mark Special Week

FARMINGTON
American Education Week, Nov. 9 through 15 will coincide this year with parent-teacher conferences regarding the new state report card being introduced in Farmington.

The conferences will take place during the afternoon of Nov. 11, 12, and 13. Elementary classes will be dismissed at noon on those days.

Theme of the national observance this year is, "Better Education—Your Job." The report card conferences will provide an excellent opportunity for the community to become involved in the educational process.
