

Thursday, August 16, 1979

(F)10

Binoculars held one fan's focus on the activity at Pine Knob. Bringing up baby starts with a musical education.

Outdoor concerts heat up the summer

The big summer weekend at a Joni Mitchell concert at Pine Knob, capturing the magic of a high-level, energy-charged performance before a captivated audience.

PINE KNOB'S eighth season continues with such stars as the J. Geils Band, Peabo Bryson, Maze, the Tubes, and Meadow Brook. Johnny Mathis, Bobby Vinton, the Rockets, Foreigner, Jimmy Carson, Chicago, Arlo Guthrie and Pete Seeger, and Pearl Jam.

Meadow Brook's 16th season starts next week with the J. Geils Band, Peabo Bryson, Maze, the Tubes, and Meadow Brook. Johnny Mathis, Bobby Vinton, the Rockets, Foreigner, Jimmy Carson, Chicago, Arlo Guthrie and Pete Seeger, and Pearl Jam.

The eighth season continues with such attractions as Wilbert Longmire, David Sporney's Big Band, the Interlochen Jazz Band, Earl "Fatha" Hines, and the Brookside Jazz Ensemble.

Renaissance Live, which debuted last summer, promises the Salsoul Orchestra and Michael Franks for the final two concerts of the 1979 summer season.

Joni Mitchell entertained her fans Saturday and Sunday at Pine Knob Music Theatre in Clarkston.

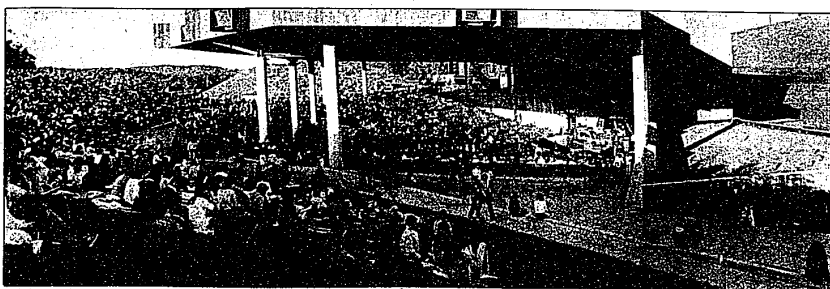

Party hats helped these concertgoers get in the mood, while they snacked sitting on the grass.

Sing out celebrates spirit of the concert.

Staff photos by Dick Kelley

Pine Knob is a lively scene, as the audience settles in for a concert that was sold out in the pavilion.

Dramatic moment in song.