

Harrison band boosters meet to get acquainted

A get-acquainted meeting for the parents of band and orchestra students at Harrison High School is planned for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 19, in the high school's band room.

"It is an excellent opportunity for parents to get acquainted with each other and to become involved in making the band program a success," said Barbara Munn, speaking for the group.

Harrison's marching band has just returned from a week of vigorous marching and playing at Camp Emery, located north of Muskegon, getting a head start in rehearsals for the football games this season.

This is the 10th year the Harrison Band and Orchestra Boosters has underwritten the camp program for those who play instruments, baton twirlers, flag bearers and drum majorettes.

"Students pay only a small tuition fee for all expenses, room, board, transportation and activities," Ms. Munn said.

"Paul Barber is director of music at Harrison and has been instrumental in developing an esprit de corps among his students to become responsible for precision marching and performance. In the process, lasting friendships among students with similar interests develop."

MIXED IN with the music and marching were leisure time activities, but even on the way home, a stop in Grand Rapids was on the agenda for another musical experience from the sounds of the Mighty Wurlitzer Theater Pipe Organ.

Adult counselors at band camp this year, all volunteers, were Norm Leubke, Paul Notestine, Anne Kastura, Betty Babcock, Ruth Klueger and Fern Barber.

More adult volunteer help came from Beverly Notestine and Sandy Williams, both registered nurses who were on full-time duty at the camp.

Instructions came from Barber, and his wife Fern, Steve Markovich, David Thompson and Mitch Topollian. The latter are all former marching band students.

Major fund raisers to support the students in marching band activities are Tag Day, which is done in cooperation with the two other high schools in Farmington, and the sale of grapefruit and oranges.

Tag Days are scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Oct. 12-13 this year. The fruit sale will run in November. Clark Reid is president of the Harrison High School Booster Club for the 1979-80 season. His vice president is Anne Kastura.

Other officers for the year are Sandy Williams, Betty Babcock, Paul Notestine, Harold Munn and Barbara Munn. Trustees are Lee Markovich, Ben DeCooke and Eleanor Potocki.

Spurned by voters, SC culinary building gets board approval

By TOM LONERGAN

After four millage defeats, you might have thought the Culinary Arts building addition at Schoolcraft College was cooked.

Not so. The addition, thought to be in jeopardy from repeated millage defeats, was approved by the community college's board of trustees last week.

One trustee, however, said the approval will raise credibility problems with the voters.

"We have twice gone to voters and said we need the millage (increase) to do it, and now we do it anyway. That creates one terrific credibility problem," said Trustee Leonard Wozniak.

But board Chairman Harry Greenleaf replied college officials never said the addition wouldn't be built if the millage failed.

THE $12 MILLION one-story addition to Waterman Campus Center is a scaled-down version of a two-story plan Schoolcraft has had on the boards for years.

Since 1976, voters have turned down millage proposals for the two-story addition four times, including twice this year. The millage was to provide local matching revenues for a state grant approved in 1976.

Trustees Wednesday approved preliminary plans for the addition to the Waterman Campus Center that will tentatively be 50 percent state-funded. The local share, $638,000, is from an 11-year-old bond issue. The bond money was invested while college officials lobbied for state funding.

After June's millage defeat, the college administration was successful in obtaining more state funding (increased from 40 percent), which still must be formally approved by the state Office of Management and Budget, according to W. Kenneth Lindner, Schoolcraft vice president.

ALTHOUGH unanimously approved by the seven college trustees, several questioned how Schoolcraft's credibility will rest with the taxpayers, since the two-story addition has always been pegged to increased taxes.

Residents asked to exhibit collections of interest

The Farmington Area Arts Commission has arranged to exhibit displays of collectors' items from area residents that would be of interest to the community at large.

The exhibits will be placed on the walls, or in two glass cases in Farmington Hills City Hall.

The collections could be historical relics, crafts, antiques, or any category of art or musical work.

The glass cases available for display are 50-by-60 inches and 18 inches deep, and they can be locked.

The commission hopes for a monthly turnover.

Those who have something appropriate for display are asked to contact the Farmington city manager's office. The commission's board of directors will screen items for suitability for viewing.

Members caution that items presented for display are not to be promoting sales of either professional or amateur handwork.

Representative pieces should be brought to the city manager's office and left for commissioners to view. The owner will be notified of the commission's decision as soon as possible.

There'll be more spice in your life after Monday, October 1
