

Jewish-Christian dialogue set Oct. 17

Dr. W. D. Davies, professor of Advanced Studies in Christian Origins at Duke University, will be the keynote speaker in the third in a series of Jewish-Christian dialogues being held in the Detroit area.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 17 at St. Aidan Catholic Church, 17500 Farmington Road, Livonia.

Rabbi James Rudin and the Rev. Jerome T. Walsh will reply to Dr. Davies' talk, and the Rev. Alex Brunett will be the moderator.

Davies will speak on "The Territorial Dimension in Judaism and in the Christian Faith."

The speaker is known as one of the few Biblical scholars to use Rabbinical sources for the illustration of the New Testament. His first major research project concerned the interaction of Judaism and Christianity in the first century AD.

He is the author of 10 books, the most recent being "The Gospel and the Land: Early Christianity and Jewish Territorial Doctrine," published in 1974.

He is presently editing with Louis Finkelstein the "Cambridge History of Judaism," for Cambridge University Press. For this he is writing two chapters on Jesus and Paul. He is also preparing a study of communism in Acts.

The speaker was born in Wales and holds degrees from the University of Wales and the University of Cambridge. He holds honorary degrees from the University of St. Andrews, Scotland, Pacific School of Religion, and University of Upsala.

Rudin is assistant director of Interreligious Affairs, American Jewish Committee. Walsh is professor of Biblical Studies at St. John's Provincial Seminary.

Brunett is director of Ecumenical and Interreligious Affairs for the Archdiocese of Detroit.
