

For Children's Hospital

Two Farmington Hills women who are working toward giving a $50,000 gift to Children's Hospital are Virginia Olechowski (at left) and Elizabeth Green. The season's project is the Children's Hospital of Michigan Auxiliary's Christmas card sale. Sample cards and order forms will be sent on request by calling the hospital's volunteer office, 494-5326, during regular business hours.

Home economist brings 'Food Processor Magic'

Pat Berry, director of home economics at Roy Oak's Micro-Place, will share her culinary talents in a four-session class called "Food Processor Magic," beginning Thursday, Oct. 25, in Farmington Community Center.

Miss Berry, a graduate home economist from Michigan State University, will teach participants to become adventurous cooks in this introduction to the food processor, from either 1-3 p.m. or 7:30-9:30 p.m. The fee is $30.

She believes the kitchen renaissance is continuing and the food processor is one of the important front-runners.

She has studied the uses of the processor for the past five years and is convinced it is the solution for those who are looking for more efficient ways to make culinary discoveries.

"The machine liberates you from scores of tedious kitchen tasks and really does the job of a skilled pair of hands," she said.

Every recipe demonstrated in the class will feature one of the processor techniques: slicing, shredding, chopping, blending.

THE FIRST session will focus on the use of the machine with the various techniques available as the class participates in making mayonnaise, pate, a cheese log and whipped-cream ice cream.

The second session will concern itself with a rapid-mix rye bread, Danish apple cake, chopped chicken livers, cucumber soup and a seafood mousse.

The third session will uncover the secrets of a chocolate mousse, creamed spinach, zesty lemon loaf, stir-fry beef and a basic pot pie dough.

The fourth session focuses on a brioche bread, dessert walnut tarts, min-Reubens, curry sauce and what Miss Berry calls her special treat, a raisin-curry meat ball.

Registrations are necessary by calling the center, 477-8404.

'Be Your Own Boss' designed for women

"Be Your Own Boss," a program designed for women who are interested in exploring the possibilities of starting their own business, is an all-day program set for Wednesday, Oct. 24, in Northwest Branch YWCA. The Y is located at 25940 Grand River.

Phyllis Kennedy, leader of the seminar, is currently teaching a class in small business administration in Marygrove College, and has a masters degree in business administration from Wayne State University. As a homemaker, she feels she is in a good position to help women who have always thought of themselves as housewives to use their home management skills to start their own business.

"The managerial skills needed in business are the same, whether it's an ice cream franchise or a factory," said Mrs. Kennedy.

"I encourage women to research their needs, recognize their skills, and develop a business plan. There is no reason women can't transfer their skills from the home to business management," she said.

Coffee will be served at 9:30 a.m., followed by a morning and afternoon session. There will be a lunch break at noon when participants can purchase lunch from the salad bar, or eat their own sandwich.

Cost for the day is $8, or $6 for Y members. Registration must be made by Friday, Oct. 19, by calling the Y at 537-8500.
