

Golden Dome bazaar set

St. John's Armenian Church's annual bazaar will open Friday, Nov. 9, at the church in Southfield.

Many booths and activities are planned and new features and additions have been added. There will even be a disco dance contest at 8 p.m. Friday.

Media celebrities will judge the event. They include Rita Bell, Barry Zevan and Lorri Kapp. Many games and prizes are being offered. Backgammon enthusiasts may enter a Tavloo Tournament at 1 p.m. Saturday.

A first-time showing of fine furs and gold jewelry will take place. Many other gift items will be available as well as fine quality oriental rugs.

"A Century of French Armenian Paintings" will be on exhibit and also for sale in the exhibit hall.

Four Armenian hands will perform and delicious Armenian meals will be served. Fortune tellers will ply their trade and a great variety of books, records and tapes will be available.

Tours of the golden-domed church will take place throughout the weekend.

Countdown to Christmas Walk

Members of Hill and Dale Garden Club are on the countdown now to Sunday, Dec. 9, the date set for their every-other-year Christmas Walk. Seven houses will be open that day with Christmas decorations running the gamut from ultra-contemporary to an English tavern. Clockwise around the table, Eileen Woods, Grace Bulman, Joan Angelo, Sadie Orofino,

Margaret Ridle, Marge Yee, Nancy Goulette and Betty Howell prepare pine cone wreaths for the boutique of hand-fashioned items, set up in Farmington Community Center, where the walk begins. Tickets, for a donation of $6, include a map of the tour, and can be purchased in the center. (Staff photo by Randy Borst)
