Troy teams aim for Silverdome status

By BRIAN PATTERSON

"The kids always look forward to playing Athens," said Troy coach Jon Haezebroch. "We'd only like to play them once, but since it's at the Silverdome they're looking forward to it."

Athens coach Bill Gerbe said his players know all of Troy's players well, but as far as he is concerned the Silverdome contest is just another game.

"We're going to go out and play. Whatever happens, happens," Gerbe said.

Haezebroch said the excitement of playing before a large crowd in a preliminary to a Detroit Pistons game got the players excited last year.

"THEY GOT pretty excited, but they played close to normal after the initial tightness wore off," he said.

Troy's tallest players are 6-11 Kerwin Booker and Bill Ten Eyck. Athens has five players over 6-feet tall.

"They are larger, but we probably have the advantage at guard," Haezebroch said.

Booker has led the Colts this season in scoring with a dozen points in each of Troy's games. Guard Tim Kelp had 13 in the first game, but scored only two in the second.

Guard Stacey Cruce has led Athens in scoring with a 14.5 average. Gerbe looks to forward Jeff Morrish for rebounds and consistency.

The next to the last game of the season for each will be the Silverdome contest.

"It's such an emotional game. It's hard to tell what's going to happen," Haezebroch said.
