

Doll collection evokes quieter days

The blonde doll clutches a fan and displays a pert party dress.

Adults and children have long been fascinated by the world of dolls.

American Indian children fashioned dolls from corn husks. Dolls were made from rags, bisque, china and eventually plastic. They ranged from the innocence of a sweet-faced baby doll to the mythical world of Barbie and Ken.

For many years, until her death in 1946, Nelle Hulett of Farmington collected dolls wherever she went. After her death, her husband, Max Hulett prized the collection. He eventually donated it to the Farmington Historical Society.

After languishing in the society's archives, the dolls were recently displayed in Farmington Hills Municipal Building.

Tiny figurines representing Dutch children stood side by side with corn husk dolls. A cloth doll brought from Copenhagen, Denmark in 1938 represents a kindly grandmother doing her knitting. A checked apron is spread ceremoniously on her lap.

Hulett, 95, came to Farmington from Detroit in 1934. He practiced law in Farmington and Detroit. Hulett moved his practice to Farmington in the early '40's and was a judge in the city.

This doll portrays an elderly Danish woman sitting with her knitting.

A miniature family of corn husk dolls and tiny Dutch figurines peer out at passers-by.

THE INSIDE * ANGLE

SING A SONG of the Unsung Hero. Know somebody who's an unrecognized modern day hero? A steady stream of good-Samaritan deeds or a fantastic once in a lifetime good deed qualifies a resident of someone employed in Farmington or Farmington Hills for the award. The staff of the Farmington Observer will choose the winner by the first week in March. Just drop a line to Unsung Hero, 23352 Farmington Road, Farmington, 48024 by Feb. 15. The Unsung Hero or Heroine will receive two tickets to the best seats in the Fisher Theater for the play of their choice during 1980. So, don't just sit there, help us publicize an unknown hero.

LOOK LOOK Angles understands that its logo will spell its name correctly from now on. While IA was gratified to think the powers that be believed it was THE Inside Angle, it was always a little taken aback by the misspelling of its name. But Angles has heard that the missing S will be tacked on to its name. (Angles knew that if it held out long enough, someone would see the situation its way.)

THE BULGARIAN RADIO COMMITTEE will present a Bulgarian cultural program at 8 p.m., Jan. 27 at the International Institute Metropolitan Detroit, 111 East Kirby near Woodward.

FIRST THERE WERE Shirley Temple look-alike contests. Then mothers rather wished their little darling could pass for a Mouseketeer. (Miska-Mouska-Mousketeer) Now, the '80s bring us "Little Miss Snow Flake" pageants in the Livonia Mail on Jan. 19. The contest is divided into the following age groups: 5-7-years-old; 8-10-years-old; 11-13 years-old; 14-16 and 17 and over. Events include modeling, talent and disco modeling. Winners will receive the mandatory crown, banner, flowers and qualification into the 1980 Michigan State Finals. Runners-up receive a participation award. Contact the mall office for entry forms. Males and females may enter. (IA hears Bert Parks is looking for a job. Angles wonders if he could sing "There she 'he' is Miss (Mr.) Snowflake."

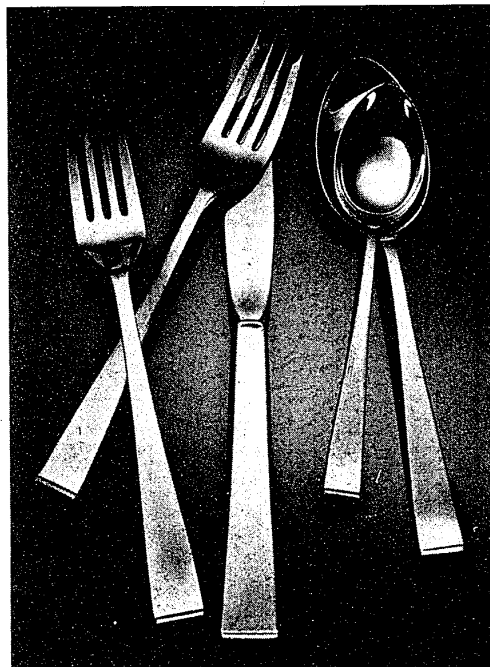

ALSO IN THE MALL: Miniature golf is available until Jan. 28 for a fee. Brush up on your swing for the coming summer.

A BIG IA salute to those brave caddies who were awarded Chick Evans college scholarships recently. The scholarships named after famed amateur duffer Charles "Chick" Evans who died at the age of 89 in November, are awarded on a competitive basis considering caddie record, academic standing and financial need. This winter's winners from the Farmington area include the following: Timothy Dwyer, 20, son of Mrs. Doris Yung. He is a graduate of North Farmington High and a student at Oakland Community College, and caddied at Meadowbrook Country Club. Mary Griffin, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Griffin also received a scholarship. She is a senior at Our Lady of Mercy High, caddied at Forest Lake Country Club. Daniel Joppich, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Joppich, a senior at Catholic Central, caddied at Oakland Hills Country Club. Here's an appropriate salute from IA for your good work: ♦♦♦♦♦♦♦♦♦♦ G ♦♦♦♦♦♦♦♦♦♦
