

Eagle rank goes to 3 in Troop 389

Creator of Greek cuisine next in center's series

An impressive ceremony preceded by dinner for about 200 guests was hosted by Boy Scout Troop 389 for three of its members who obtained the rank of Eagle.

Guests of honor were Terry A. Finafrock, Paul A. Ligenza and Martin Stephens, who reached the highest pinnacle of scouting.

Their presentations were given with humor and insight as to how each of the young men progressed through scouting, citing individual projects and achievements.

Finafrock, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Finafrock, has been involved in scouting since 1972. He has served as patrol leader for the past two years as well as Chater Chief of Order of the Arrow.

His community service project, a requirement for the Eagle rank, was done in Kensington ark, cleaning up the nature trails, spreading chips and cutting back brush where needed.

He plans to pursue a career in either machine tool design or engineering conservation.

He is 15 years old and a sophomore at Harrison High School.

LIGENZA, youngest of the group, is 14 and a freshman at East Junior High School.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Vic Ligenza became a scout in 1972 and along with his scouting activities he has been a Detroit News carrier while keeping his name on the honor roll.

For his community service project he cleaned out the creek behind Marian Oakland-West Senior Citizen Home making the view more pleasant for the residents.

His career plans fluctuate between being a construction engineer or a business representative.

TERRY A. FINAFROCK

PAUL A. LIGENZA

MARTIN STEPHENS

Stephens is the 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stephens and a junior at Harrison High School.

He served as Webelo Den Chief for Cub Scout Pack 3 last year and will retain that title through the 1979-80 season.

He has been a member of every band in every school he has attended playing piano, organ, cornet or trumpet.

Stephens' community service project concerned the repair, renovation and clearance of an area of the Sarah Fisher St. Vincent Home grounds. With the assistance of 10 other scouts he cleared a river, repaired a picnic spot, renovated a shrine and painted a bridge.

His career will be centered around science and medicine.

AMERICANISM Awards, American flags and plaques were given to each of the young men by Joseph A. Heyman and John Aldrich who represented Elks Lodge BPOC 1886.

State Rep. Sandy Brotherton, R-Farmington, gave each a state resolution commending them on their achievements.

One of the highlights of the evening for the guests of honor was a slide show given by Scoutmaster and Harvey showing the three Eagle's progress, beginning with pictures of their first campout. The show continued on through a packbacking experience in the Smoky Mountains, a jaunt for only the experienced.

Merit badges, year pins and rank movements were awarded to other scouts in the troop. And Dr. Robert Wylin was given a plaque by the troop in recognition and appreciation of his continued serve to the scouts.

Troop 389 welcomes new members to its meetings in Nardin Park United Methodist Church. Inquiries about scouting activities will be taken by calling John Green, 478-5187.

Toula Patsalis, owner of the cooking instruction center and quality cookware shop Kitchen Glamour, comes to Farmington Community Center Feb. 15 for the Fabulous Fridays series.

She is knowledgeable in and around anything connected to the kitchen: "Especially if that anything is Greek," she says.

She will demonstrate her culinary talents from 1-3 p.m. in the session called "The Cuisine of Greece." It is the fourth of the nine-part diversified series.

Mrs. Patsalis will uncover the mysteries of producing spinach pie, exotic pastitsio, which is a casserole of ground beef, noodles and a creamy souffle topping and baklava.

The fee of $5 per person includes a taste of her delicacies plus printed instructions to add to the guests' personal recipe collection.

Registrations must be made five days prior to the event by calling the center, 477-8404.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT TRIM of Farmington announce the birth of their son Richard John Trim, born Wednesday, Jan. 23.

The infant's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Trim of Livonia and Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Lollar of Brighton.

'Food Process Magic' sessions begin Feb. 21

Pat Berry, director of home economics at Royal Oak's Micro-Place, will share her cooking expertise in a four-session class called "Food Process Magic" beginning Thursday, Feb. 21, in Farmington Community Center.

Miss Berry, a graduate home economist from Michigan State University, will guide participants on their way to becoming adventurous cooks in the basic introduction course to the food processor.

Sessions run from 1-3 p.m. or 7:30-9:30 p.m. The fee is $30.

A believer in the kitchen renaissance and the food processor as an important part in that renaissance, Miss Berry is convinced it is the solution for cooks who are looking for more efficient methods of preparing foods.

"This machine liberates you from scores of tedious kitchen chores and does the job of a skilled pair of hands," she says.

She will demonstrate five different processors and show techniques of slicing, shredding, chopping, blending and the many ways the versatile machine is an aid in the kitchen.

Registrations are being taken now by calling the center, 477-8404.
