

With fifes and drums

The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps, credited with putting the Michigan town on the map, comes to The All Sports and Variety Show Friday, Feb. 29 in Harrison High School. Clad in the uniforms that are replicas of George Washington's Life Guard (1776-1783) the musicians preserve the nation's early musical heritage playing wooden fifes, snare and bass drums, led by a three flag color guard and drum major.

The group joins 14 other acts staged as a benefit for Farmington Community Concert Band with a 7:30 p.m. curtain. Tickets at $5, $3 for students and seniors are available in Farmington & Farmington Hills Chamber of Commerce, 23715 Farmington Rd. (Staff photo by Gary Caskey)

Rosemary Haughton hosted by Sorrows

Rosemary Haughton, theologian and author, was hosted by members of Our Lady of Sorrows parish last week, participating in masses and leading group discussion sessions.

"She devoted her time in our sessions helping us discover what the Spirit may be calling us to be in these times of change," said Mary Einhaus, speaking for the parish.

"She believes that the demand made of us now is equally deep and radical as was made in the first days of Christianity," Ms. Einhaus said.

Mrs. Haughton is the mother of ten children who founded Lutholien, a community near the Scottish moors she calls "a place for hoping in a world that needs hope."

The organic farm is a center for those who have special problems and those who are trying to find a truthful direction in their lives. All share the work and the life, which is very basic and simple.

She is the author of many books. "The Passionate God" is her latest book and the one she calls her last major book, to be published this spring by

ROSEMARY HAUGHTON

Darton, Longman & Todd in England, and Paulist Press in New York.

Of her 30 published books the best known in America are "On Trying To Be Human," "Act of Love," "Theology of Experience," and "Tales from Eternity."

Silva mind control classes on at Mercy

Free introductory sessions on Silva mind control will be given at 7 p.m. April 14 and 17 in Mercy Center. Those who choose to take the class will have options of dates for sessions beginning April 20.

Silva mind control teaches how to function at lower brain frequencies which facilitate memory, concentration, creativity, learning, meditation, healing and extra-sensory perception.

Rev. Jay Samonie, pastor of Most Holy Trinity Church in Detroit, leads the sessions of techniques for better sleeping, solving problems, control of physiological functions and managing stress.

Cost is $250, or if paid at the first class, $200. Additional members of the family and students will be charged $150, or $100 if paid at the first class.

All fees are tax deductible. The proceeds will be given to the needy of Most Holy Trinity parish.

Free brochures will be sent upon request by calling Mercy Center, 476-8010. Mercy Center is at 28600 11 Mile.

6 complete training in cancer detection

Six area residents have completed a training program in oral cancer screening and detection sponsored by Michigan Cancer Foundation.

The new volunteers are among 51 registered dental hygienists who may now provide oral cancer screenings in the state.

New holders of certificates are Susan J. Flutur, Mary L. Noll, Lynda West and Cherie Trevisan, all of Farmington Hills; Danette Bianchi of Novi and Terry Kelley of Farmington.

Free oral cancer examinations are available through Michigan Cancer Foundation's Oral Cancer Detection Center and Oakland Service Center in Royal. Appointments are necessary and will be made by calling the service center at 549-4600.

The cancer foundation is a Torch Drive-United Way agency.
