

2 stars debuting in thriller at Meadow Brook Theater

Two New York actors will be making their Meadow Brook debuts when the theater opens with the James Yates thriller, "The Deadly Game," at 8:30 tonight (Thursday) on the Oakland University campus.

Adapted from a novel by the famous Swiss writer Friedrich Durrenmatt, "The Deadly Game" tells the story of three retired men of law who amuse themselves by prosecuting strangers at a remote Swiss chalet where the men frequently gather for an evening's entertainment.

The two newcomers to the Meadow Brook stage are Judith Tiltman and Humphrey Davis. Miss Tiltman, who will play the role of A Visitor, was seen last summer with Pat Paulsen in "Two Plus Two Equals Six" at the Cherry County Playhouse in Traverse City. In Detroit, she appeared with Tony Curtis in "One Night Stand" at the Fisher Theater. She has played a wide variety of roles in regional theaters around the country and has appeared in numerous daytime television programs including "Love of Life," "Search for Tomorrow," "Where the Heart Is" and "Sesame Street."

HUMPHREY DAVIS comes to Meadow Brook directly from the pre-Broadway tryout of a musical based on the life of Al Jolson in which he appeared as both J. J. Schubert and Jack Warner. Davis, who will play the defense attorney in "The Deadly Game," was last seen on Broadway in Tom Stoppard's play "New Found Land."

His appearance as Minsky in Molnar's "The Play's the Thing" at New York's Roundabout Theater led to star billing when the production moved to Broadway. He has played in several regional theaters and has been featured in five major films and in more than 1,000 television productions.

Others in the cast include Albert M. Ottenheimer, who will play the role of the prosecuting attorney, and was last seen at Meadow Brook as the antique dealer in "The Price" in 1972; Donald C. Moore, as the Judge Harry Ellerbe as a former hangerman; Richard Jamieson as Trap, the defendant; Cheryl Giannini as Nicole the maid; and Mi-

Charles Nolte has staged "The Deadly Game" which will feature a single setting by Peter-William Hicks, lighting by Jean A. Montgomery and costumes by Mary Lynn Bonnell.

Tickets for "The Deadly Game," which will run through March 25, may be purchased at Hudson's or by calling the Meadow Brook Theater box office, 377-3300.

Opening week performances of "The Deadly Game" are scheduled at 8:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, 2 and 8:30 p.m. Saturday and 6:30 p.m. Sunday. The following weeks will offer performances at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday-Friday, 6 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday, 6:30 p.m. Sunday and 2 p.m. Wednesday. The theater is dark Mondays.

New shows announced

Terence Kilburn, artistic director of the Meadow Brook Theater, has announced the 1979-80 season will open Oct. 11 with Richard Brinsley Sheridan's comic masterpiece, "The School for Scandal."

A world premiere and a Michigan premiere will highlight the forthcoming season. The world premiere, "A Summer Remembered" by Charles Nolte, has been described as a comedy-drama about a midwestern family during the summer of 1938.

Nolte, a professor at the University of Minnesota, has staged several of Meadow Brook's more distinguished productions including this season's "The Caine Mutiny Court-Martial." His plays have been produced in New York, London, Stockholm, Berlin, Tel Aviv, Belgrade and Frankfurt.

Nolte also wrote the libretto for "The Voyage of Edgar Allan Poe," composed by Pulitzer Prize winning composer Dominick Argento. Last spring he completed the libretto for another opera, "Carlotta," based on the life of the first and only Empress of Mexico.

The Michigan premiere will be the bizarre British satire, "Entertaining Mr. Sloane" by Joe Orton. Other plays to be presented during the next season will include "You Can't Take It With You," "A Moon for the Misbegotten," "Of Mice and Men," "The Play's the Thing" and "Charles's Aunt."
