4 From Area Playing At Schoolcraft

Two former Stevenson High players and one each from Garden City East and Garden City West are members of this season's Schoolcraft College basketball team.

The ex-Stevenson players are 6-2 Billy Ashcraft and 5-10 Dennis Mayo.

Jerry Hopkins, a 6-1 guard-forward, hails from Garden City West while Jim Schultz, a 6-3 forward — center, prepped at Garden City East.

Other members of Coach Tom Rancilio's team played their high school basketball in Detroit.

Schoolcraft will play in the Concordia Classic Friday and Saturday and then visit Oakland Community's High Lakes next Tuesday.

As was the case last year, Schoolcraft will play its home games at the Northville Community Center.

Harriers Head For Cranbrook

Registration for the 1969 national A.A.U. cross-country championships, being hosted on the beautiful and scenic grounds of Cranbrook Institute in Bloomfield Hills for the first time, began pouring in to race director, Ernest B. Smith, over the weekend.

The 10,000 meter race, awarded to the Michigan A.A.U. two years ago, will be run next Saturday, Nov. 29, on the 5,000 meter track of the Cranbrook School. The "gun" is scheduled for 9 a.m.

Smith said that "between 300 and 400 entrants, including leading distance runners in the United States, Canada, and Mexico" had been anticipated. However, with the large number of non-Michigan applications coming in, the number of participants may well exceed all expectations.

MUCH OF THE interest being generated nationwide for this race, Smith said, can be attributed to the attractive facilities being provided by the Cranbrook School.

These include, aside from the spacious and beautiful grounds, full changing and eating accommodations along with use of the Administration Offices. The 300 acres of Cranbrook are internationally famous for the beauty of their architecture, sculptures that dot the grounds, gardens, and woodlands.

Smith, who served as the long-distance running chairman for the Michigan A.A.U., said that Michigan's distance runners have not yet started to "weed in their applications in great numbers, probably because they feel that they have more time due to their proximity to the site."

He urged Michigan runners, however, to begin now to submit their registrations, as the event is getting crowded and time is getting short. Individual runners may submit their own applications, he said, and do not have to wait for their school or club to act in their behalf.

TECHNICALLY, the race is open only to qualified A.A.U. athletes. However, according to Smith, any distance runner who could qualify for his high school team or for an A.A.U. sanctioned club-team can obtain A.A.U. registration directly from him by calling LU 4-7913, or writing to him at 4457 Bruce, Detroit 48228.

"It is a well established fact," Smith said, "that when a national event in any sport is staged in an area, the local sport scene receives a great impetus and encouragement."

"All of the local schools and their coaches have been contacted and we are hopeful that many of them will be able to send participants."

Last year's winning team, Villanova, and last year's individual winner, John Mason, who was then running for Kansas State and is now competing for the Pacific Coast Club, will be in the race to defend their crowns.

SMITH SAID THAT this year's winner, "If an American, will be selected to run in the Sao Sylvestre 8,500 meter race to be held in Sao Paulo, Brazil, on December 31st."

The event is sponsored by the Michigan Striders Club of the Michigan A.A.U.

John Wiesek, who is president of the Michigan A.A.U. and a coach at Birmingham's Groves High School, has announced that Wayne State University's veteran trainer, Robert C. White, has been named the host trainer for the cross-country events.

While, in his 19th year at Wayne State, is trainer for all the university's sports teams.

Dr. John Wood of Bloomfield Hills will serve as "Meet Physician."
