

Chanel's white, silk-shantung, two-piece suit is a study in classic elegance. With it combine a white, v-neck silk jacquard blouse carrying Chanel's traditional double-C design, and a beige leather Chanel bag that is both a clutch and shoulder bag. Belt, shoes and jewelry are all by Chanel. Jacobson's Birmingham store only.

Chanel, the international symbol of style and good taste, has turned the tables again. Coco Chanel's successors are tweaking the beak of fashion, this time in makeup colors.

Just when all the leading European and American designers are screaming red lips and nails, lots of gleam and glitter and obviously made-up eyes, Chanel has introduced "tender," romantic color.

"The Chanel trend is toward natural-looking lips achieved with matt lipstick," said Chanel's chief designer Philippe Guibourge.

"The classic red nail polish first presented by Chanel continues to be important," he said, "but the newest trend is to nude and lighter nails."

Although, of course, the cosmetics line includes many different shades, the House of Chanel is recommending a switch to beige matt lipstick and nail polish.

"The new Visage Chanel colors," Guibourge said, "are cued to all that's tender, natural and new — reflecting superlatively natural tones."

The Chanel spectrum of color unfolds with a subtlety that begins with a barely there, matt color for the lips, deepens to blush the cheeks and sparkle the eyes. Nail color is designed to give the self-assured beauty a new choice of subtle, seductive shades.

The Chanel colorings can be worn alone or layered. Worn alone, they achieve a refreshing less-is-more look. Layered, the colors assume a hint-of-lint look.

Chanel cosmetics are available at Saks Fifth Avenue.
