Easter Seal Society give kids safety tips

The Easter Seal Society of Oakland County offers the following 10 tips as ways parents can make home play yard equipment safer.

- Check to make sure nuts, bolts and clamps are properly tightened.

- Replace rusted parts. Sand metal tubing that is rusted and repaint with unleaded paint.

- Oil all metal parts regularly throughout the season.

- Check rope swings for wear and stress. Replace ropes that might break in mid-swing.

- Inspect equipment for sharp edges, exposed screws and bolts, and open-ended S hooks. Place tape over sharp edges and exposed screws and bolts, close S hooks by pinching with pliers. Sharp edges and hooks can tear clothes and skin.

- Check exercise rings. These should be at least 10 inches in diameter. Smaller exercise rings can trap a child's head and these should be discarded where children will not find and play with them.

- Make sure swings have lightweight seats and that metal swing seats have rolled edges.

- Measure the distance between the playground set and nearby fences, building walls, walkways and other play areas such as sandboxes. Swing sets should be at least six feet from buildings, hard surfaces and other play areas.

- Set playsets in concrete for maximum stability and be certain anchoring devices are below ground level to avoid a tripping hazard.

- Be sure the set is installed over grass or a bed of sand rather than hard surfaces such as concrete, brick, black-top or cinders.
