

Back at the Raven

Claudia Schmidt will appear April 18-22 at the Raven Gallery in Southfield. Ms. Schmidt interprets traditional British ballads, blues laments, standards and her own compositions, in an expressive voice. She also plays 12-string guitar, the mountain dulcimer and the piano. Show time is Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday at 9:30 p.m.; Friday and Saturday at 9:30 and 11 p.m.

U-M establishes theater department

University of Michigan Regents have approved establishing a Department of Theater and Drama, effective July 1. The new department will consist of the theater section of the Department of Speech Communication and Theater.

"The Department of Theater and Drama will serve as the focus for interdisciplinary programs in the performing arts," reported Billy E. Frye, dean of the College of Literature, Science and the Arts, and Harold T. Shapiro, vice president for academic affairs.

"The justification for establishing an independent Department of Theater and Drama is based on intellectual and practical grounds," Frye said.

"As a separate unit the department will be better able to handle its internal administration and will be able to work directly with allied areas, such as music, art, dance and the drama programs in the English Department and the Residential College."

Seven other Big Ten universities, as well as many other leading universities, have separate theater departments. A separate theater department at Michigan has been under consideration for some time. Theater faculty members argued for separation in 1969 and again in 1975, when they petitioned for separate status.

In May 1977, Frye sought the advice of students and faculty in the department and in allied programs on campus. A Theater Separation Committee was appointed and last March reported it favored separation. The college executive committee last April voted to recommend to regents the establishment of an interdepartmental Department of Theater and Drama.

"Separate status will make the University of Michigan better able to attract good students and faculty," Shapiro reported. "The Professional Theater Program also will benefit from the proposed reorganization."

Establishment of a separate department will "give coherence and integrity to the diverse yet related disciplines which make up the theater arts," Shapiro said.

Bonstelle Theater opening rewrite

"The Eccentricities of a Nightingale," critically acclaimed rewrite by Tennessee Williams of his early play "Summer and Smoke," opens Friday, April 20, at Wayne State University's Bonstelle Theater for a two-weekend run.

"Eccentricities" plays through April 29 with Friday and Saturday performances at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m.

The nightingale in the title refers to Alma Winemiller, a sensitive young woman whose complex, heart-breaking relationship with a young doctor forms the story of this moving play. Williams has called "Eccentricities" one of his favorite works, and Alma "one of my very best characters."

"Eccentricities" was written in 1951, prior to the London opening of "Summer and Smoke." That production already was in rehearsal when Williams arrived with his radically altered script.

TOO LATE FOR use, Williams left it with a friend in London and retrieved it years later. Regional productions in this country culminated in a PBS television production in 1975 and in 1976 "Eccentricities" opened on Broadway.

When it opened, Clive Barnes said it was "Williams at his most wonderful," and Martin Guitierrez wrote, "The production delivers the special song for the human heart that only Williams could sing."

Leading the cast of "Eccentricities" is Kim Cook of Livonia as Alma, with Richard Buzinski of New Baltimore as John Buchanan, Sandra Prappas of Southfield as Mrs. Buchanan, Elizabeth R.T. Hall of Detroit as Mrs. Winemiller and Neil E. Martin of Warren as Rev. Winemiller.

Detroit Film Society screens 2 comedies

"My Little Chickadee" and "Animal Crackers" — two movies featuring the comedy of Mae West, W. C. Fields and the Marx Brothers — will be presented Friday, April 13, at 7 p.m. by the Detroit Film Society.

The screening, which will be repeated Saturday, April 14, also at 7 p.m., will be held in the Detroit Public Library Friends Auditorium, 5201 Woodward.

Edward Cline's "My Little Chickadee" with Mae West and W. C. Fields has been described by Time magazine as "an inspired coupling of the suggestive art of America's leading mental strip teaser with the comic talents of one of the funniest men on earth."

"Animal Crackers," directed by Victor Herman, stars the Marx Brothers, Lillian Roth and Margaret Dumont. Harry Ruby's musical score includes Groucho's famous "Hokey for Captain Spaulding" number.

Memberships to this season's three remaining Film Society private screenings — which will include more movie classics of the '30s and '40s and a special guest speaker — will be available at a reduced rate at the door. For further information on both the current and the next seasons, call the library's Friends Office at 833-1046.

Lampoon due at Music Hall

The National Lampoon Show will run at Detroit's Music Hall Center, May 22-27, with its multimedia musical comedy revue "If We're Late, Start Without Us."
