searching for bargains can result in a great outfit at a budget-loving price. Sheri Garms found a lavender cotton-silk material languishing on the sale table. She purchased it and for $15 made a quick Butterick pattern which stopped the show. The lavender of the material was highlighted by a bouquet of lavender flowers in her black patent leather belt.

Following pattern instructions to the letter is a rule to forget at times. Sometimes, a pattern will have too much of an A-line in it to be flattering to the wearer. It should be cut out of the design.

TAKE OFF THE POCKETS on the Vogue skirt pattern 9194 and wear the back of the skirt in front for a different wrap skirt. The pattern normally makes up into a back wrapped skirt with patch pockets.

Karen Garms, 15, ended the show by modeling a wedding gown made by Mrs. McKinnon. The plain satin gown was accented by a bouquet of white material. The yoke lace was outlined in beadwork.

The dress was styled in the fashion of the turn of the century with a high neck and mutton sleeves. To give the new dress an old look, Mrs. McKinnon dyed it in tea for a musty white color.

Jaycees sponsor walk for Farmington

The Farmington Area Jaycees are sponsoring a charity walk and run on June 16.

Registration will be at 8 a.m. in the east parking lot of Farmington High School. Starting time will be at 8:45 a.m. for joggers and cross-country runners and 9 a.m. for all others.

Sponsor sheets are available at local schools, Farmington public libraries,

Chamber of Commerce office, city offices and T&L Printing.

Participants should get pledges from friends and neighbors. The walk will be 15 kilometers (approximately nine miles).

In prior years proceeds were donated to the Farmington YMCA, Farmington Community Center, Burns Awareness, Farmington Area Advisory Council.

Concrete strike ends

A seven-week-old trade strike by concrete haulers, members of Teamsters Local 247, ended Friday with union membership ratifying a new contract by nearly a 2-to-1 margin.

By a 362 to 192 vote, workers approved the contract and returned to their jobs — some immediately following the ratification meeting Friday morning in Detroit.

The strike had slowed and in some cases altogether halted new construction in the tri-county area.

In Farmington and Farmington Hills, work stopped on homes in two subdivisions: Rambleswood and Farmington Square. Builders were unable to get cement for foundations and landscaping.

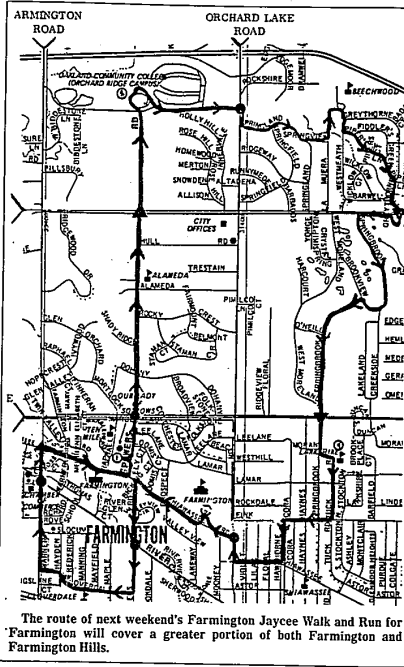

A fire station on Drake north of 12 Mile also fell behind schedule because of the strike. It needs driveways and inside cement work and is slated for an August completion.

About 800 cement truck drivers, mechanics and bin operators belong to the local. They had voted down a tentative contract last week.

The price of cement is expected to rise due to the strike. Estimates ran from $1.15 to $1.25 per square foot (from $1 a square foot).

In addition, a June 1 pay raise for carpenters, roofers and related tradesmen will push the cost of new construction upward.

Some builders estimate the repercussions of the strike will slow new construction into 1980.

The route of next weekend's Farmington Jaycee Walk and Run for Farmington will cover a greater portion of both Farmington and Farmington Hills.

OLHSA funds continue through end of month

The Oakland Livingston Human Service Agency (OLHSA) Crisis Intervention Program has been extended one month to June 30.

The emergency energy direct aid program, funded through the Community Services Administration, allows OLHSA to pay up to $250 per client for utility shut-off notices, emergency food and home repairs, such as furnace or roof repairs.

The Project Operations Department chairman, Ron Marabate, announced that staff can arrange for food certificates in lieu of utility bill aid for persons who have already paid their utility bills and who do not have shut off notices.

"We learned from one of our research programs that senior citizens may give up something else, such as food or medical care, in order to pay their utility bills," he said.

"They may be eligible for the food certificates if they can show that their utility bills were high during the months of Jan. 1 through May 31, 1979."

"This program is not just for senior citizens. We are asking that anyone who thinks that he or she might be eligible to receive direct aid to contact the Project Warmth offices in Oakland or Livingston Counties at 373-7767."

Marabate pointed out that the grant can also be used for energy home repairs, such as on the furnace or roof, if the utility bills have already been paid. He suggested that eligible families get bids on such repairs to submit to the Project Warmth staff for payment. Marabate also stressed that eligibility must be confirmed first.

OLHSA is mandated to serve the low income, disadvantaged and elderly community.

"I know there are families in our two counties who have need of our assistance," Marabate said.

Mercy students win Auto Club contest

Ten Our Lady of Mercy students were among 30 Michigan students who were honored by the Automobile Club of Michigan last week at the Dearborn Fairlane Manor.

The students were honored for their entries in the annual AAA school traffic safety poster contest.

Among the winners were Susan Snyder who won a first place award and $100 U.S. Saving Bond in the national competition. She also won $75 in the state contest. She is a ninth grader.

Other winners were Mary Burke, a 12th grader; Bridget Brooker, a ninth grader; Teresa Powell; Leslie Ratliff, a 12th grader; Marlene Weglarz, a 12th grader; Polly Ross, a ninth grader; Mary Gallagher, ninth grader; Cathy McDonough, a ninth grader; Tracy Flanagan, a ninth grader.

The 10 students won a total of $700.
