New LOF director

John D. Anderson of Farmington has been named director of automotive glass sales at Libbey-Owens Ford, Detroit sales office. Anderson joined LOF's staff in 1940 as a field representative in Dallas. He became an automotive and industrial representative in the Detroit office in 1948. He is a native of Omaha and a graduate of the University of Nebraska.

He'll lead Swiss pack

The Experiment in International Living group of Brattleboro, Vt. has appointed Douglas Coutts of Farmington Hills to lead a group of 10 students to Switzerland this summer.

Coutts will join his group members at an experiment orientation site in New England for cultural orientation and in some cases, intensive language training prior to departure.

Once in Switzerland, each group member will live with a host family learning about local customs and traditions on a day to day basis. The homestay is the heart of each experiment program and lasts about a month.

After the homestay the next two weeks of the summer are spent in either travel or some specialized activity, such as studying handicrafts with Mexican artisans, sailing in France, or working on a community improvement project in Ghana.

The experiment conducts summer programs for high school and college students in 30 countries in Europe, Africa, Latin America, the Middle East and Asia.

Founded in 1932, the experiment is a private, non-profit educational organization. For more information, write Information Services, The Experiment, Brattleboro, Vermont 05301.

Historical society plans Founders Festival activity

The auctioning of a hand hooked rug will highlight the Farmington Historical Society's contribution to the Farmington Founders Festival.

The rug, donated by the Willard Adams family, is a 3-by-6 foot oval made by Grace Adams and donated by Betty Glasford.

It depicts beige leaves with a fancy border. A minimum starting bid of $100 has been established.

Bids can be made during the three festival days.

Questions about the society's activities can be directed to Don Nichols, vice president, at 474-5137.

2 residents attend strategy seminar

Two Farmington residents — Jay Ellens, a colonel and a chaplain in the U.S. Army Reserve; and George Martin, a commander in the U.S. Navy Reserve — were among 400 senior officers attending the Defense Strategy Seminar at the National Defense University, in Washington, D.C.

Ellens is a professor, pastor and clinical therapist at University Hills Christian Center in Farmington Hills. Martin is employed as a stockbroker for E.F. Hutton in Southfield.
