Symphony plays UP

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra will travel to Michigan's Upper Peninsula for the sixth annual Upper Peninsula Summer Music Festival July 31-Aug. 5.

For the week-long tour the orchestra will be split into two ensembles for performances of symphonic and chamber programs. Werner Torkanowsky will conduct all the symphonic concerts, and Eric Knight will be on the podium for the "pops" performances.

Symphonic concerts under the direction of Maestro Torkanowsky are Tuesday, July 31, at the Wakefield Theatre, Ironwood area; Wednesday, Aug. 1 at Iron Mountain High School in Iron Mountain; Thursday, Aug. 2, at the Calumet Theatre in Calumet; Friday, Aug. 3 in the Escanaba Middle School Auditorium; and Saturday, Aug. 4 when Torkanowsky will conduct the full orchestra in the Northern Michigan University Fieldhouse at Marquette.

The program for Tuesday through Friday performances will include Glinka's Overture to "Russian and Ludmila," Tchaikovsky's Violin Concerto with concert master Gordon Staples as the featured soloist, three Slavonic dances by Dvorak, and Beethoven's Symphony No. 1. Saturday's performance will include Weber's Overture to "Oberon," Tchaikovsky's Violin Concerto, again featuring Gordon Staples as soloist, Hindemith's "Symphonic Metamorphosis of Themes by Carl Maria von Weber," and Respighi's "Pines of Rome."

Five "pops" performances are scheduled for Tuesday, July 31 in the Menominee Middle School Auditorium at Menominee; Wednesday, Aug. 1 at the Wakefield Theatre in Wakefield; Thursday, Aug. 2 at Iron Mountain High School in Iron Mountain; Friday, Aug. 3 at the Calumet Theatre in Calumet; and Sunday, Aug. 5 in Norris Arena at Lake Superior State College in Sault Ste. Marie.

The Upper Peninsula Music Festival is made possible through support from the Michigan Council for the Arts, the Upper Peninsula Travel and Recreation Association, the Upper Peninsula Arts Coordinating Board, and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Inc., in cooperation with local sponsoring agencies.

Giving up the crown

Pamela Prichard, Miss Farmington 1978, will turn over her crown to the new title winner at the closing of the scholarship pageant Wednesday. The ballerina who took the first runner-up position in the Miss Michigan competition this spring, will pursue a modeling career and continue her classes with Busher School of Dance Arts this summer before returning to Oakland Community College in the fall. She will also be one of the performers in the Miss Farmington Pageant, which begins at 7 p.m. in Vladimirs.
