Local News

Rev. J. S. Priestly of West Branch, was calling on friends in town Wednesday and Thursday.

L. C. Harger shot a dandy buck last Friday. This is the first deer shot by this party. Mr. Harger reports everyone enjoying himself to the limit.

The Misses Warner and Carlisle entertained at their home on Oakland Road Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kaichen of Detroit and Mrs. George Crane of California.

The picture at the Community Motion Picture program on Tuesday at the Methodist church is "It pays to advertise." Bryant Washburn is the star.

Gene Grace has given one afternoon each week over to the women who desire to bowl. Many requests have been made of him for one day for women and those who are interested are invited to get in touch with him for the most convenient day.

Miss Rosellth Knapp Breed, the Boston Humbrist and dramatic impersonator, the first number of the Community Lecture Course, delighted the large audience that gathered to hear her in Wednesday evening. Farmington was fortunate in being able to hear this well-known artist. The next number is December 6th, when Dr. Parker Miles will deliver his great lecture, "Tallow Dips." Dr. Miles is one of the most famous platform orators in America, and is seldom heard in towns of the population of Farmington.

Next Sunday two distinguished visitors at the National Conference now in session in Detroit will speak at the Methodist church. Dr. J. C. Nicholson, a leading minister of the east, will be the morning speaker and Dr. N. E. Davies of Chicago, will address the evening congregation. Dr. Davies is the Executive Secretary of the Department of Homes and Hospitals of the Methodist church, and has charge of the development of the social institutions of the country.

Extending an invitation to visit their college at Mohrre Miss Maurine Dohany of Clarenceville and Miss Margaret Thomas of Detroit, students of St. Mary's college and academy, met the famous military leader at the Hotel Statler Monday. Forced by the demands of his itinerary to decline the invitation, Marshal Foch in reply sent the sisters and students an autographed letter in French, the only one signed in Michigan. A special messenger will return with the two girls to deliver the letter to the sisters.

HOPES INQUIRY WILL CLEAR DEATH MYSTERY.

of the men he saw in the big car the night of the shooting. His face, he explained, was revealed when the officer's flashlight was thrown upon it. May be held here only for investigation, but it was said by authorities that a warrant charging murder may be requested today or tomorrow.

Roy C. Vandercook, head of the state law enforcement forces, was expected to arrive in Pontiac this afternoon to take personal charge of the questioning to which May will be subjected to.—Pontiac Daily Press, Nov. 15, 1921.

Another Suspect Held.

Ralph J. Boyle, alias "Blacky" Boyle, 22 years old, 395 Magnolia street was arrested early Thursday morning by Detectives O'Grady and Wilson. He is held as a fugitive for the state police. Boyle will be taken to Pontiac, where an investigation is pending into the murder of Harold Anderson, state trooper, at Novi, last March.—Detroit Free Press, Nov. 17, 1921.

The people of Farmington and vicinity will be glad to hear that the law is taking its course. Trooper Anderson was well-liked and highly respected by everyone. He came to Farmington as a total stranger but soon made countless friends and his death came as a distinct shock to the entire community.
