Physicologie in Printing Art!!

Many years ago when Guttenberg, DeVince and Blanchard worked with the composing stick, printing was looked upon as one of the fine arts.

In after years, as printing was commercialized, people gradually lost sight of the artistic viewpoint, lost sight of the fact that each type face was created by an artist with a certain object in the creation of that particular face.

Today printing is gradually regaining its lost prestige in the world of art, people are beginning to realize the fact that certain faces of type help to express certain ideas, that certain kinds and colors of paper and ink bring to mind certain visions.

We are in a position to instill into your printed matter that physiologie which will not only convey your thought but will also help to build up

The Ford Runabout

THE Ford Runabout needs no advertising. About all we have to do is to tell you we can supply the demand with something like promptness and the selling is over. We have never been able to get enough from the factory to meet the demand and do not suppose we ever will get enough. There are more than four million five hundred thousand Ford cars in operation today, and of this number about three hundred thousand are in foreign countries, the rest right here in America, but we have one hundred and five to one hundred and ten millions people and it looks from the way demand comes in that we will have sold that many Runabouts before we can satisfy that demand.

It is one great, little utility. It fits into every man's wants, from the physician to the worker in the factory, from the country blacksmith to the millionaire railroad owner, from the contractor and his employees to the millionaire sporting man's entourage, almost as necessary these days as the handkerchief.
