

Si Spooner Says:

All the men in Farmington are running for office. Why all this political activity, gentlemen?

Jeb Spooner is painting his barn the same color he used to paint the town every Saturday night.

Ezra Komtassell reckons the crops will have to be raised in the old-fashioned way, even if Uncle Henry Ford says the milkless cow is coming into style.

Some fellows never let their left hand know what their right hand does, by cracky.

Double cross, ham string, hog tie and electric torch are now often covered by the word, diplomacy, by punny wilkins.

Some fellows go hog wild and Jack Rabbit crazy when things don't go their way. Be calm even tho' you have to wait till judgment day.

The old settler who used to drink corn whiskey while he hewed trees has a son who sips lemonade while he twirls a cane.

Many a good man gets defeated in the battle of life. But some fellows will shake when judgement day comes, who are successful in business and politics, because they did their best friends.

The feller who used to bray about his fine horse now wheels a filly, by heck.

By gosh, I reckon I will run to catch the last car, it is the only thing I ever run for anyway.

The Town Pump set in the village square where all the solons collected, even the mayor. They used to talk about swapping a horse, but since prohibition they are filled with remorse.

ESSEX

Holds this Double Advantage

--Price and Quality

PERFORMANCE and quality establish comparisons. Thus it is natural that men rank the Essex with much costlier cars. But in addition we urge you to consider the Essex price, when you are measuring its ability and endurance against other cars.

It has shown speed up to 74 miles an hour. Its 3037 miles in 50 hours, averaging more than a mile a minute was never equaled. And to think that four separate Essex cars broke the Transcontinental record, which scores of cars had attempted for five years in vain.

In appearance, detail and reliability as well as price it commands preference of judicious buyers.

Prices F. O. B. Detroit:

Touring, $1395. Roadster, $1595. Cabriolet, $2100. Sedan $2450

COLLEGES TAKE UP PROBLEMS INCIDENT TO POWER FARMING

AGRICULTURAL schools, state universities and other educational institutions, long interested in the progress of farming and conservation, plant propagation, better methods of improving live stock, preservation of fruit trees, plants, and, in general, the betterment of the living and growing things on American farms, have turned their attention to the problems of education that arise from the use of power farming machinery.

On the daily educational program of the sixth National Tractor Show, to be held at Columbus, O., Feb. 7 to 13, which includes at least four speakers, and on different phases of power farming, there will also be featured the latest extension of its kind in the history of power farming machinery, and is of great interest everywhere because of the big educational program offered.

Four of the speakers are shown in the above: H. H. Musselman, College of Agriculture, Michigan; J. B. Davidson, Ohio College, Iowa; Oscar W. Sjogren, Lincoln, Nebraska; and William A. Grady, Purdue University. Practically every state in the Union will be represented either by a speaker or a farm tractor.
