New Firm Organized For Heating and Plumbing Installation

Another Addition to Farmington Business Section.

Andrew Salow and Henry Ludeman have organized a company for the purpose of equipping homes and stores with heating plants and water systems. They also intend to cover the community, both village and farming sections in general repair work in the above lines.

"We find a field for our business," said Mr. Ludeman, "to date we have done considerable repair work and we have several installation jobs which will work on in the near future. In the last three weeks we have had a number of inquiries from farm owners who wish to have water systems installed. The time has come when the people in the rural districts command the same facilities at a small cost as their village and city neighbors. The time will come when every progressive farmer will have his own heating and lighting and water systems.

Nelson-Travis

Miss Almada Travis of Farmington and Mr. Leon and Nelson of Detroit, were married by Rev. Walter Frost at four o'clock Wednesday, March twenty-third. Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Travis graciously received the bride and groom at their home on the Base Line Road.

The young couple are living in their new home on Vancouver Ave. in Detroit.

A number of out-of-town guests came from Detroit, Ann Arbor, Plymouth and Farmington.

A wedding supper was served for the couple, their relatives and a few friends.

Mrs. Vincent and Mrs. Raneier were bridesmaids for the bride. Mrs. Roy O. Robinson gave a most beautiful flower.

Automobiles Extend Scope Of Our Schools, Both In City And Country

Motor Cars As Transportation To and From Schools "Higher Education Dependent on Them," Says Mr. Goers

"The automobile is proving its value as a part of the school equipment of both country and city schools," says William Goers, local dealer in Chevrolet passenger and commercial cars. "It has extended the scope of rural education. In the past the little red school house attracted to its classes only such pupils as could make their way to it on foot or by a slow hitch. Now rural schools are larger and more modern structures equipped for the study of higher subjects than were the country schools of a few years ago, and classes are made up of pupils who live in a wide range of territory.

"Many pupils of country schools today who do not travel to school daily in the family car are carried from their homes directly to the schools by automobile buses operated as a part of the school equipment under the direction of school authorities. In some districts men teachers are employed to drive the school buses. This serves to discourage truancy.

"Attendance records in schools served by auto buses are better the year round. Storms do not keep the children away, because they can ride safely and snugly to their classes.

"The city of Seattle, for example, employs attendance officers who use passenger automobiles to travel about the streets during school hours and question any child of school age encountered.

"In Detroit the automobile itself is a subject of study in kindergarten classes. Pupils are taught the law of traffic regulation. This helps them to take better care of themselves on the street and highways and lays the ground work for intelligent operation of cars later in life."

"It Is For Us, The Living, Rather To Be Dedicated To The Unfinished Work Which They Who Fought Have Thus Far So Nobly Carried On"

THE BONUS—An Obligation to the Soldier Dead and Living.

EX-GOVERNOR FRED M. WARNER TO PRESIDE

An American soldier lies somewhere in No Man's Land in France; his brother lies somewhere in the frost bitten deserted waste lands of Russia; their buddy sits through the long days at Walter Reed Hospital devoid of sight and hearing and hopelessly crippled. Other members of their regiment took up the place in the ranks where they left off when they joined the flag in order to fight for the honor and safety of the United States.

Today these boys that are living are back in civil life again. Two years in the service is a long time to take out of young man's life. Many were broken in spirit and health. Lucrative jobs given up were filled. Former soldiers came back to walk the streets in a search of work. None gave the former service man even a smile. Many ex-soldiers felt the uniform must be an emblem of disgrace. At heart the people of the great and wealthy state of Michigan are with the boys who fought for them and theirs. They are not unmindful of the great sacrifice that these young men made.

The men and women of the State of Michigan will have the opportunity to show their gratefulness for the soldiers in more than words. They will not fail the brave men who gave or were willing to give their all.

Meeting to Take Up Question of Soldier Bonus.

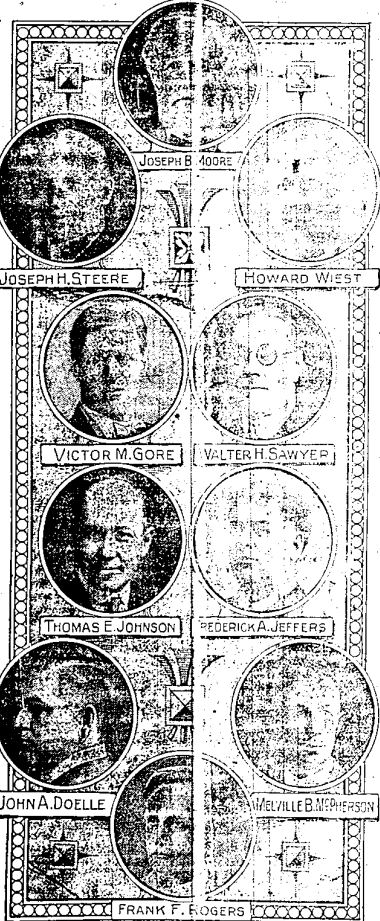

A special orchestra will play patriotic music during the huge mass meeting which will be held at the Town Hall Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock. Ex-Governor Fred M. Warner will preside and make a speech in favor of the bonus.

Clinton McGee, prominent attorney and well-known orator, will give a talk on the question of a Bonus for the men who joined the colors during the world war.

A representative of the World War will come from Detroit to present the soldiers side of the proposition.

Many prominent men among the farmers and business men have declared themselves in favor of a Bonus and this assembly is to be held to explain the nature of the Bonus to the people.

The Republican Candidates, to Be Elected to State Offices April 4

Seven of the ten Republican candidates for state offices heeded the demands of the people of Michigan that they seek re-election. Justices Joseph H. Moore, and Joseph H. Steere, both of Lansing, are candidates for re-election. Howard West, of Lansing is a candidate to fill a vacancy. Victor M. Gore, of Benton Harbor and Walter H. Sawyer, of Hilldale are now regents of the University of Michigan and seek re-election. John A. Doelle, of Marquette, and Melville B. McPherson, of Lowell, candidates for places as members of the State Board of Agriculture, are newcomers. Thomas E. Johnson of Lansing, is candidate for re-election as Superintendent of Public Instruction and Frederick A. Jeffers, of Painesdale, seeks re-election as member of the State Board of Education. Frank F. Rogers, of Lansing, is now State Highway Commissioner and seeks re-election.
